

Before Testifying

Defendant Under Hypnosis

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO—A woman was placed into hypnotic trance before a jury, and then testified in post-hypnotic state in an historic legal moment Tuesday.

Gladys Lillian Pitt, 41, charged with attempted murder, placed crown witness Thomas Irving King in the doorway of the bedroom at the moment Mrs. Pitt's husband was being struck on the head with a hammer.

She is charged in Supreme Court with attempting to kill her husband, Edward Harry Pitt, 45, with a hammer, at their Parksville home on April 22.

King earlier testified he was outside the room, and did not see what was happening, at the time of the hammer blow. (See Page 30)

In Front of Jury

Mrs. Pitt was hypnotized in front of the jury by a psychiatrist. Then she was brought out of the hypnosis, and testified in post-hypnotic state.

She said she was able to remember several events she could not remember before. Vancouver psychiatrist Frederick William Hanley, who specializes in hypnosis, began the process of placing Mrs. Pitt in a hypnotic state about 11 a.m.

Mr. Justice J. S. Aikens advised the jury shortly after court opening:

"You recall that (the defendant) had very little recollection of events. (Defence counsel R. C. Weir) asked that the accused be subjected to hypnosis."

"I have decided . . . that I will allow this witness to be placed into a trance in this courtroom."

Mr. Justice Aikens explained to the jury that hypnosis is recognized by medical authorities to be one of two methods by which recollection can be aided.

'Unusual Procedure'

"You are the sole judge of the facts," he said in explaining that the jury could, if it wished, disregard the evidence.

"This is a most unusual procedure," he concluded. The request had been the subject of a trial within a trial until after 3 p.m. Monday. Mr. Weir testified the method shortly before noon.

At 11:27, Dr. Hanley testified that he had, by earlier examinations of Mrs. Pitt, found her to be an excellent subject for hypnosis.

She had demonstrated that she had the ability to recall more events than those she had to date recalled while testifying on her own behalf.

Pitt is presently undergoing treatment in Victoria, where he had been taken for emergency life-saving operations.

Dr. Hanley told the court that there are three Rs to memory — registration, retention, and recall.

Recall Assisted

He said it was recall which may be assisted through hypnosis.

Reasons for the type of amnesia she suffers could be due to "an emotional shock," he said.

The events in question were those immediately concerned with the striking of the blow. He sat beside Mrs. Pitt near the jury box and said:

"Remember how it was last time. Just be very comfortable and relax, and just let yourself sink down and relax in that chair."

In a soothing voice, the doctor told the witness her eyelids would become heavy.

"They're getting heavier and heavier and heavier, and any time your eyelids want to close they can do so. You want to go into a deep,

Nanaimo Case Makes History

NANAIMO — Mr. Justice J. S. Aikens was unable to find a single legal precedent for his historic decision to allow hypnosis, and testimony in post-hypnotic state, Tuesday.

It took nine hours of trial-within-a-trial argument Monday to establish the basis for the decision.

When press members asked permission to publish some of the argument between defence and crown counsels that went into the decision, permission was refused.

But outside the court, Mr. Justice Aikens telephoned the law library in Vancouver, and a crash search for any similar event in legal history in the Commonwealth or the United States was carried out.

The result: In one case in Britain a witness testified under the influence of sodium pentathol, the so-called truth serum. In the United States, several courts have heard tape recordings made while the subject was in a trance.

But no precedent could be found anywhere for the Pitt case, where the accused was actually hypnotized in front of the jury, and then testified in post-hypnotic state.

Israel Blamed by UN Observer

From UPI Reports

Artillery shells and mortar rounds hurtled across the southern end of the Suez Canal Tuesday in a fierce 3½-hour battle that wrecked an Egyptian oil and industrial complex at Port Suez. Mid-war dispatches said Israeli gunners destroyed 80 per cent of Egypt's capability for refining and storing petroleum products.

Reports from Cairo early this morning said fires in Port Suez were raging out of control hours after Israeli and Egyptian guns finally fell silent under a United Nations cease-fire.

UN truce observers on the scene said Israeli forces fired the first shots, touching off fighting that quickly escalated into one of the biggest battles since Israel humbled Arab armies in the six-day war last June.

The eruption of heavy fighting had been anticipated along the waterway since last Saturday when Soviet-made missiles knifing into the night sky from Egyptian positions, nearly cut the Israeli destroyer Elath in two and sent it to the bottom of the Mediterranean Sea in an attack that killed and wounded more than 100 Israeli sailors.

Both sides accused the other of starting the Suez battle Tuesday.

Cairo dispatches this morning told of heavy civilian casualties in Port Suez, and apparently catastrophic damage to Egypt's two largest oil refineries and tank farms. Firefighters battled desperately to control flames that sent millions of gallons of precious gasoline and diesel oil up in huge columns of smoke.

Li-Gen. Odd Bull of Norway, the chief UN truce observer in the Middle East, reported from the scene that a ceasefire was arranged late Tuesday afternoon.

Bull said Israeli mortars fired the first shots. The fighting soon escalated into a full scale artillery duel with each side using big guns.

Conflicting claims on casualties and damage were issued in both Cairo and Jerusalem, but it was clear

Ontario Tax Chief Facing Counterfeit Cheque Charge

TORONTO (CP)—The chief corporation tax collector for Ontario was arrested Tuesday at his office in the legislature building and charged with conspiring to print $500,000 worth of counterfeit Royal Bank travellers cheques.

Howard T. Falls, 39-year-old Toronto man appointed to his job five months ago, was remanded to Oct. 31. Bail was set at $3,000.

WIDE RING

Meanwhile, a 13-month investigation by police has uncovered details of a counterfeiting operation involving $3,200,000 worth of counterfeit cheques.

Investigations began on Labor Day weekend in 1966 when a gang passed $21,000 worth of the forged cheques—all $100 denomination—in Quebec City, Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa.

Banks in Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver were warned by police in Eastern Canada of passers in those cities.

More than $500,000 worth of the Bank of America cheques have been passed in all parts of the world. About $200,000 worth of the Royal Bank of Canada cheques have been seized and destroyed by police in Eastern Canada, and about $300,000 worth are still outstanding. Police said no effort has been made to pass them since Sept. 7, 1966.

Strike Reason

MiGs Held Aces

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. defence department said Tuesday a previously off-limits airbase near Hanoi was bombed because of a recent increase in MiG activity during which U.S. dogfight losses have been three times those of the North Vietnamese. (See also Page 3)

The Phuc Yen airfield, 18 miles northwest of Hanoi, was struck Tuesday for the first time by U.S. fighter-bombers. It long had been a disputed target between the joint chiefs of staff and Defence Secretary Robert McNamara.

After the raids, the Pentagon said the decision to bomb the base was due to a "significant recent increase" in MiG activity against U.S. planes over North Vietnam.

There were no U.S. planes reported lost in the raid.

ISRAEL FEELS STING AT UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Soviet Union and the United States presented at an emergency session of the UN Security Council Tuesday night rival resolutions designed to deal with the latest outbreak of violence in the Middle East.

Both Egyptian and Israeli chief UN delegates traded bitter charges during the late-night council session, called at Egypt's formal request following the artillery-and-mortar duel across the southern end of the Suez Canal earlier in the day.

Each accused the other's country of aggression and violation of their Middle East ceasefire obligations.

DAMAGES DEMAND

The Soviet Union formally proposed that the Security Council condemn Israel for what it called an "act of aggression" in shelling Port Suez and that it request Israel to compensate Egypt for damages.

The Soviet draft resolution, introduced by Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko, also would have the council request Israel "to observe strictly" previous UN resolutions imposing a ceasefire in the area.

VIOLATION CHARGED

The Soviet resolution proposed that the council declare the actions of Israeli forces in the Suez area "a gross violation of the Security Council resolutions" which followed last June's Arab-Israeli war.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg followed Fedorenko to the rostrum, with a resolution which asked the council to "condemn any and all violations of

Arms Door Open —But Not Wide

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. state department announced Tuesday a partial lifting of the ban on shipments of U.S. arms to the Middle East to permit sending warplanes to Israel, Libya and Morocco and some lesser equipment to Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Tunisia. It said the move "is not in any sense an open-ended decision or an opening of the floodgates."

Eric's Echelon True Blue 52

GORY TORY STORY: The Victoria Progressive Conservatives are busy in the back-rooms getting into shape for a couple of upcoming bouts of infighting.

One group, led by Eric Charman, is trying to get a nominating meeting called in the hope of nominating Mr. Charman and at the same time unseating the executive led by Brian Smith.

Meanwhile, in the opposing corner, Mr. Smith is reported grooming candidates who might be interested in contesting the nomination against Mr. Charman. Nobody will admit anything at this stage of the game, but word has leaked from one training camp that favored names are Anna Wootton, Professor Ronald Cheffins or even Mr. Smith himself.

To add to the action, it is possible that Tony Roberts and Foster Isherwood will also have a go.

One of Mr. Charman's supporters reports that his group has recruited 52 pickup members, some old, some borrowed, but all true blue.

Well, whoever gets the nomination for the Tories will have a fight on his hands, if one flying rumor comes home to roost.

The word is that Oak Bay's highly successful MLA, Alan Macfarlane, will be in the running when it comes time for the Liberals to hold their nominating convention.

Tories who see hopes of knocking over incumbent David Groos would find the Oak Bay MLA a much tougher customer.

To round out the political picture, there are no signs of a meeting of Victoria Tories even on the distant horizon. The current issue of the bulletin put out by Vancouver headquarters covers meetings until the end of November, but there is not a mention of anything for Victoria.

Esquimalt-Saanich constituency association will meet Nov. 27. By that time, busy George Chatterton will be back from Africa, where he is representing Canada at the Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference.

Just to round out the roundup: If Alan Macfarlane goes for the federal seat, then the present Oak Bay reeve, Allan Cox, is expected to have a crack at the provincial seat. No matter how you call the shots, it could be quite an interesting political round.

SEWER NEWS: Some of the satellite municipalities are wondering why the Victoria city council has stalled on approval of the plan to get letters patent for the Regional Board so that the Greater Victoria municipal study can go ahead.

One insider says the feeling is that Victoria aldermen are scared that even the hint of Victoria taxpayers possibly being saddled with a sewer plan that includes sewer-starved Saanich is too much.

LOST SCORE: When pianist Marina Mdivani left Moscow to play her date with the Victoria Symphony, she was supposed to have with her the score of Beethoven's second piano concerto so that she could play the work in Saskatchewan. The score got lost.

Victoria conductor Laszlo Gati went to the public library and borrowed its copy of the piano work, and by now you must have guessed — the talented Russian misplaced that score, too.

If you happen to find a tiny Beethoven score, please call the symphony office. Don't mail it to Moscow.

WEE DRAM: Art Cameron, manager of the Hotel Vancouver, was here Tuesday and got Liquor Control Board approval for a plush new lounge in his hotel.

It will be called the Lair, and is to be decorated with gargoyles of the Grits, a mythical beast if ever there was one.

Jewish Guns Demolish Nasser's Oil

Egyptian oil supplies had been hit heavily.

A Cairo communique said Egyptian shells destroyed one Mirage jet fighter plane, 10 Israeli tanks, four armored cars, one truck, five rockets, six observation outposts, two medium sized machine guns, three ammunition dumps, an administration centre and several mobile artillery pieces.

The Egyptian communique said Israeli forces killed three soldiers, wounded five and hit a tank. It said the Israelis killed three Egyptian civilians and wounded 37, four seriously.

Jerusalem sources said Israeli artillery shells set fire to refineries supplying more than 5,000,000 tons of Egypt's annual consumption of 6,500,000 tons of oil.

The Israeli informants denied that Israeli forces had opened fire first, claiming

Egyptians started the battle by attacking Israeli troops along the east bank of the waterway. These sources said the Egyptian gunners were firing from civilian areas and that Israeli counterforce was unable to avoid non-military personnel.

Jerusalem dispatches denied Egyptian claims that any Israeli aircraft had been hit in the fighting.

"The Israeli air force was not even engaged in today's incident," one informed military source in Jerusalem told UPI late Tuesday night.

Gen. Bull's report to the U.S. made no mention of aircraft. The fighting was viewed as the U.N. as extremely serious and it coincided with an official Israeli communique that Israeli and Jordanian troops clashed Monday night in a skirmish that seriously wounded two Israeli troops. The combat flared in occupied areas of Jordan on the west bank of the River Jordan.

While members of the Security Council assembled in New York Tuesday night, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban conferred in Washington with President Johnson. There were reports that Johnson wanted Israel to refrain from any military retaliation for the sinking of the Elath last Saturday night.

Gen. Moshe Dayan, the

Israeli defence minister, said in a speech near Tel Aviv Monday night that the attack on the Elath had been ordered by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser to "renew hostilities" in the Middle East. Dayan said Israel would respond to what was described as "an act of war" with "step by step" actions.

The artillery duel along the southern reaches of the Suez Canal erupted about 12 hours after Dayan spoke.

the ceasefire" in the Middle East.

Goldberg called on the governments directly involved to observe the ceasefire scrupulously and co-operate fully with UN ceasefire observers.

BOTH SIDES
The American resolution sought to divide responsibility between the two sides.

The council adjourned its emergency debate at 12:30 a.m. EDT until 11 a.m. today. The council is meeting for the first time on the Middle East crisis since July, when it approved plans for deployment of UN observer teams in the Suez area.

CANADIAN VIEW

Ambassador George Ignatieff of Canada and Lord Caradon of Britain noted that the council was meeting during a period of intensive backstage negotiations on steps to bring permanent peace to the Middle East.

Both delegates, calling for restraint and observance of the ceasefire, proposed the council take immediate steps to authorize appointment of a special representative to the Middle East to try to work out a settlement.

Ignatieff said he could not believe the council was unable to reach agreement on "a first and essential step toward peace in the Middle East."

SAID CRIMINAL
Egyptian Ambassador Mohamed Awad El-Kony accused Israel of a "criminal act of aggression" aimed at total destruction of one of the most vital Egyptian industrial complexes.

Israeli Ambassador Gideon Rafael charged Egypt with "maritime lawlessness" and a "deliberate act of military escalation" in the sinking of the Israeli destroyer Elath last Saturday.

EGYPTIAN WATERS
Rafael told the council: "I am reminded of the Arabic saying: 'Those who light a fire cannot ask for protection from the flames.'"

El-Kony told the council that

Tuesday's "barbarous" attack by Israel earlier Tuesday followed an incursion by the Elath into Egyptian territorial waters Saturday.

El-Kony had requested the urgent council meeting in a letter to Japanese Ambassador Senjin Tsuruoka, council president for October.

Just before the council session began, at 9:26 p.m. EDT, Israel also formally requested a meeting of the council.

Charging Egypt with "open aggression and violations of the ceasefire resolution," the Israeli request claimed the Egyptians had opened fire first from gun emplacements within inhabited areas of Port Taufiq, Port Abraham and the city of Suez.

The shelling began, the Egyptian charged, immediately after an extraordinary meeting of the Israeli cabinet and could not be considered an isolated incident.

It went "far beyond" any minor violation of the ceasefire, the ambassador said, and cannot be considered less than "full military operations, which are an act of war under the UN Charter."

Improved Posture, Clothes Take Over as Diet Ends

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am dieting strenuously but not losing weight evenly. Are there diet or exercise that will take off weight effectively in the upper arm, shoulder and bustline areas? — L.H.

One of the notions which flourishes endlessly is the fiction that by diet, exercise or magic incantation it is possible to reduce one part of the body and not another.

There isn't to my knowledge any effective means of local or regional reducing. Or gaining.

Girls with thin legs demand "a diet that will give better shaped legs." Others want diets that will make hips smaller but not make the face and neck thinner. Or many other places.

Aside from exercise to tone up muscles, which will do a certain amount to make a figure generally trim, there isn't any way to put weight on here or there, or take it off there or here.

Your Good Health

You can control total weight. You can't change the pattern which Nature has decreed for your weight to be distributed.

Some people, especially women, spend a lot of money seeking such will-o-the-wisp methods of contravening Nature's intentions.

The best advice I can offer is to accept the facts of life. Improved posture can do wonders. Choice of cut and color of clothes can do a very great deal to accentuate your best points and camouflage your poorer ones.

Dear Dr. Molner: What do you think of lobeline sulphate or drug.

lobeline hydrochloride to deter smoking? — MRS. C.L.

Without doubt, lobeline can help break the tobacco habit, if properly used. Using it correctly is not so easy.

The drug in some ways has much the same effect on the system as nicotine.

I have been told by experts who have studied this problem in depth, that the correct strategy is to give so much of the drug that any nicotine addiction will give a person a sickish feeling. Thus the idea of smoking becomes repugnant.

A maximum dose of the drug must be given. A small amount has little effect. This means that a dosage for each patient has to be figured quite precisely. Not enough to make him sick, but enough so that a little smoking will.

Thus lobeline sometimes is used as a crutch in some cases, but it's simpler to quit without the effort and cost of using the drug.

Peace Depends On Belief In U.S. Pledge

Rusk

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — Secretary of State Rusk said Tuesday "the most important thing to the peace of the world is the credibility of the pledged word of the United States" in carrying out its Southeast Asian commitments.

"If that fails," Rusk told 1,500 at a Town Hall-World Affairs Council meeting, "there is no place to hide."

He said the matter of "sophistication" on the part of Hanoi in recognizing this and the nature of the American people was the major problem toward "organizing a peace."

As antiwar pickets marched outside the hotel where he spoke, Rusk noted Hanoi characterized the thousands of demonstrators at the Pentagon over the weekend as "comrades in arms," then added:

"The true comrades in arms are the soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen fighting in Vietnam. They speak for the American people."

Civil Rights Decree

Priest 'Banished' For Draft Protest

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A Roman Catholic priest said Tuesday he was "banished" from his Buffalo, N.Y., diocese Monday because he was linked with an anti-Vietnam war demonstration in the United States last week.

Rev. Gian F. Pietra Tuesday started his duties at St. James Church by celebrating mass.

A mathematics teacher at Bishop Gibbons high school in North Tonawanda, N.Y., Father Pietra was identified as one of 10 men who handed in their military draft cards during a demonstration in front of the selective service office in Buffalo last Wednesday.

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—A Negro pastor has been given 48 hours by his bishop to disassociate himself from civil rights groups or his church will be closed.

The Church of God in Christ is located in the Negro residential section of Cambridge, which has been the scene of sporadic disturbances, including fires.

Rev. James L. Euse of Salisbury, presiding bishop over the Churches of God in Christ on Maryland's Eastern Shore, padlocked the Cambridge church Sept. 29 because a meeting of the Black Action Federation was scheduled there.

Friday night, the bishop issued a statement in which he disclosed he had informed Rev. Ernest Dupree, church pastor, either to "give up his church or his association with Black Power groups or the National Association for the Advancement of colored People."

planes were shot down—seven in the Hanoi-Phu Yen area and two elsewhere—and "a number of American pilots were taken prisoner."

The U.S. command here made no mention of any losses in this action.

In South Vietnam, the ground war erupted again near Saigon. South Vietnamese government infantrymen battled a Viet Cong guerrilla force just south of the capital. About 25 miles to the north, Viet Cong mortar crews shelled two government positions and inflicted casualties that were called light.

Troopers of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division mopped up around a fortified village in the Tam Ky sector, about 350 miles northeast of Saigon, where they reported killing 48 of the North Vietnamese 3rd Regiment in a fight Monday.

Dozens of American planes evidently took part, flashing in from bases in South Vietnam and Thailand and carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Hanoi's official Vietnam news agency declared nine U.S. planes were shot down—seven in the Hanoi-Phu Yen area and two elsewhere—and "a number of American pilots were taken prisoner."

The U.S. command here made no mention of any losses in this action.

In South Vietnam, the ground war erupted again near Saigon. South Vietnamese government infantrymen battled a Viet Cong guerrilla force just south of the capital. About 25 miles to the north, Viet Cong mortar crews shelled two government positions and inflicted casualties that were called light.

Troopers of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division mopped up around a fortified village in the Tam Ky sector, about 350 miles northeast of Saigon, where they reported killing 48 of the North Vietnamese 3rd Regiment in a fight Monday.

Dozens of American planes evidently took part, flashing in from bases in South Vietnam and Thailand and carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Defector 'Spied' for CIA

U.S. Charged with New World Catastrophe

MOSCOW (UPI) — A man who identified himself as a former CIA agent named John Smith said in an article published in a Soviet newspaper Tuesday that he defected to the Soviet Union because the United States is preparing "a new world catastrophe."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman asked to comment on the article said:

"I never heard of this John Smith. The only John Smith I know of was subverted by Pochontas."

Writing in the Literaturnaya Gazeta (Literary Gazette), Smith said he spied for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency while serving on the diplomatic staff in India.

Smith said he now is a Soviet citizen living and working in Moscow. He did not say where his wife is.

Observers said it generally takes considerable time for a westerner to be granted Soviet citizenship and speculated that Smith's story was published now to counter American claims that a Soviet spy master, Lt. Col. Yevgeny Runge, had defected to the U.S.

Smith said he joined the state department in 1950 and was sent to India. He said he agreed to work for the CIA because he believed it "existed to take care of American citizens."

Smith said he helped spy on the embassy of a certain developing country (which was oriented toward toward the Soviet bloc) acted as CIA liaison man with Indian agents and collected information.

The agency reported the statement from a press conference given by a spokesman of the East German security ministry, identified only as Lt.-Col. Kehl.

Runge's defection to the U.S. was credited with the arrest of four spies in West Germany.

Moscow subsequently labelled a reply from the U.S. state department Monday re-stating the contention that Runge was a Soviet intelligence officer.

The East German claim Runge was really "an unscrupulous criminal" called Eugen Runge" who fled to West Germany in 1955 and returned to East Germany last March using the name of Willi Gast.

Born to swing together

Austin has this wild new transmission... automatic and stick shift, both in the same car!

All the new-wave happenings are coming from swinging Britain—kicky new styles, far-out Mersey music. And from Austin comes the wildest new option on wheels—two-in-one-transmission. Automatic and stick shift, both in the same box.

You can sport around town with four-on-the-floor. Or go with the cool of automatic. The Austin 1100 is like getting two cars for the price of one. And what swings more than that?

Austin comes on big with a lot more too. Front-wheel drive for barefoot traction. Fluid-filled Hydro-lastic suspension to wash out the bumps. And sideways-mounted engine, giving you room enough for family fun by the carload. Austin was born to swing—and you'll swing a real deal at your nearby Austin dealer.

Youth and Politics

THE VICTORIA Youth Council's efforts to project youth upon the civic political scene have started out with more flamboyance than sense. While the young people can be commended for their zeal in trying to advance the interests of their age-sector in the community, they ought to note that they will need to retain their energy for a long time, and spend it wisely, if they are to lead youth into being a major force by its votes in the conduct of public affairs.

As has been observed here before, "youth" is not in the first place the one-half of the population that some careless assertions have made it. Fifty per cent of the people of Canada are under 25 years of age. But many of them are babies, or young children. The "youth" that might be politically active in any way—from mid-teens to mid-twenties—constituted less than 15 per cent of the population in the last full census, and the potential voters in this group, those old enough to cast ballots, fewer than half as many.

And in the second place there is the question of just how much political consciousness Canadian youth has. The recent Ontario provincial election may shed some light in this respect.

The Globe and Mail recounts that for the first time, "in response to properly vociferous protests of disenfranchisement in previous elections, the province's students were allowed to vote on campus." Politicians had scurried from faculty to faculty grovelling for votes. But they "needn't have troubled, for the students didn't."

A survey of nine universities showed that only 27 per cent of voting-age students had bothered to transfer their voting rights to campus, while those "stale, square, aging or merely uneducated folk outside the university turned out in rain and wind in a proportion of about 65 per cent—nothing to brag about in any free society, but well over double the participation of the self-appointed Messiahs."

The law blocks the Victoria Youth Council's short route to a big say in civic affairs, the appointment of voting representatives to school board and city council. The long and democratic road—the serious promotion of understanding and interest in public matters among young people, the preparation and nomination of responsible young candidates for office who will appeal to the electorate generally—looks laborious and wearisome. But for the VYC to start out on it would be admirable.

A Lost Leader

THE BRIGHTLY rising star of New Brunswick's Progressive Conservative leader Mr. J. C. Van Horne was surprisingly eclipsed in Monday's provincial election. He suffered a personal defeat in the Restigouche constituency he won in last February's by-election when he soundly defeated his Liberal opponent, Mr. Alexandre Savoie.

Only three months before that he had won the party leadership from Mr. C. B. Sherwood and it was generally considered his energy and organization ability would bring his party to a new cohesiveness. Perhaps he has succeeded in this respect, for Conservative candidates made substantial gains, but he himself is left without a seat in the legislature.

The party standings in the new house will see the Liberal majority of 12 seats reduced to six, but Premier Louis Robichaud's followers have been returned for a third consecutive term.

This has been the pattern across the country in this provincial elections year. Incumbent governments in four contests have been returned: the Conservatives in Ontario, the Liberals in Saskatchewan, Social Credit in Alberta, and now the Liberals in New Brunswick.

Mr. Van Horne faces a hard decision: to resign his leadership or seek a safe seat. The problem will be to find such a constituency since Restigouche, which he swept with a majority of well over 2,000 only eight months ago, has repudiated him. The loss naturally creates the impression that he may be out of favor with voters generally.

Up to Montreal

IT IS NOT DIFFICULT to sympathize with the hope of Montreal's Mayor Jean Drapeau that after Expo 67 closes on Oct. 29, it will have another, continuing life as an exhibition open six months of each year and still on the same theme, Man and His World. Expo has been a tremendous boost for his city, both directly through the spending of the millions of visitors to the fair and indirectly through the laudatory publicity it has generated. Even if the exhibition closes permanently, Montreal can expect a lasting benefit in tourism; if it re-opens, however, it will add to the flow of visitors and money.

But on the other hand, neither is it surprising that Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec is less than enthusiastic about Mayor Drapeau's goal when it has been estimated that to keep Expo open with the many pavilions that have been donated to Montreal would cost $150,000,000; nor that the Ottawa government apparently is unwilling to join in the operation of the new exhibition or provide any new federal money.

By international regulation as a world's fair, Expo 67 as such must end after its six-months' run and the buildings must be removed. If Mayor Drapeau can find a way around the latter rule of the International Bureau of Exhibitions, that would still leave Ottawa waiting for recovery, through salvage, of many of the millions of dollars of the Canadian taxpayers' money it has invested in the exhibition. Thus in this respect alone, without a further infusion of funds, the federal government would be contributing to a new fair—and not a Canadian world fair in Montreal, but a Montreal fair.

Everyone in Canada will wish Mayor Drapeau good luck if he can devise a way of financing such a fair municipally, with such aid from Quebec as the provincial government might deem economically worthwhile, and of repaying some of the federal investment in Expo from profits. But otherwise, it would seem only fit that he should rejoice in the great benefits that Expo has brought to his city already, ask for no further special treatment from Ottawa, and turn his mind to the other possible uses of the world's fair site.

"All right . . . Who's the wise guy?"

Vietnam Command Change

Looking for a Propitious Moment

By ANTHONY HOWARD from Washington

GENERAL William Westmoreland, the U.S. military commander in Saigon, is expected to hand over his command to his deputy, General Creighton W. Abrams, by the end of the year. In January General Westmoreland will have completed four years' continuous service in Vietnam—four times longer than the regulation time spent there by any ordinary soldier—and his transfer back to Washington is now thought to be held up only by the difficulty of finding a propitious moment to make the announcement.

There is some suspicion, in fact, that the spate of recent stories in American newspapers suggesting that what is claimed as "the victory" at Con Thien near the Demilitarized Zone marks the end of North Vietnam's capacity to mount mass formations may have been deliberately encouraged and fostered by the administration with precisely that object in view.

The unvarnished truth is that an increasing number of senior government officials—including Mr. Robert McNamara—have wanted to replace General Westmoreland for some time, and that only the political need to present him as a victorious and successful returning hero has prevented the changeover from taking place before.

Relations between Mr. McNamara and General Westmoreland first became openly strained last July when the defence secretary, returning from his ninth visit to Vietnam, announced that rather than sending out more troops, the first priority must be to use more effectively the military personnel already in Vietnam. General Westmoreland took the remark as a personal affront, and was sorely able to contain his anger at a report of further off-the-record comment by the defence secretary that there had been "waste and inefficiency" in the American military effort in South Vietnam.

This semi-public quarrel between the two men was directly responsible for the president's superficially quotable decision to summon reporters to his upstairs sitting room in the White House to hear both of them declare that they were completely satisfied with the way everything was going.

The play, however, was a little too transparent to deceive anyone—and in the last few weeks even senior government officials have been surprisingly ready to admit in private to a belief that there is plenty of room for improvement in the way the huge American army in Vietnam is currently structured and organized.

What many of them find particularly disturbing is the size of that army's "tail": one unofficial estimate has it that for every actual American fighting soldier in Vietnam there are at least four support personnel.

Nor, it is now being conceded, has General Westmoreland's record even as a field commander been particularly glorious. Some European-oriented officials in the state department can be heard candidly comparing him with the British Field Marshal French in the First World War—if only because his sole prescription for success has consistently been a simple demand for "more of the same."

Political necessity will certainly dictate that General Westmoreland returns to Washington in some distinguished and honorific position—there is even talk of him eventually succeeding General Earle Wheeler as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Revealingly, however, there is no longer any talk even in Republican newspapers of General Westmoreland emerging as a potential presidential candidate. If nothing else, the message appears to have got home that a widespread mood of despondency over the war must in some sense be considered the responsibility of the man who, next to the president, has been most directly in charge of it.

In West Germany

A Lost-Generation Gap

By NORMAN FRANKS from Bonn

WEST Germany's "lost generation" is fast becoming an important factor in the country's political life.

The reason: Five million war dead robbed the country of many of the men who should have been its 40 to 50-year-old leaders in walks of life today. The consequence is either that old men are clinging to office, or inexperienced newcomers are being pressed forward into replacing them.

Two recent events have highlighted the fact that the calibre of West German politicians is depressingly low as a result.

The latest one was the dropping of 64-year-old Socialist veteran Willi Dehnkamp as president of the Senate of Bremen following the Social Democrat Party's dismal showing at elections a few days before.

His successor? The unknown 32-year-old Hans Kieselbach, who until then had played only a minor role in the workings of the local government.

A similar situation arose in West Berlin after the strait-laced ex-parson Heinrich Albertz, 58, announced that he wanted to resign from his post as governing mayor.

This caused another crisis among Socialist ranks for the party could find no suitable experienced candidate among their ranks who could carry out the tricky task of ruling in the divided city.

Eventually, party leader Willy Brandt solved the problem by nominating one of his own aides in the Bonn foreign office, 38-year-old State Secretary Klaus Shuatz. Few would envy Shuatz his new job.

Germany's unbalanced age structure among its males has, of course, already had far-reaching effects at government level.

For instance, the late Dr. Konrad Adenauer managed to rule almost unopposed for 14 years into his late 80s until his coalition partners pushed him into reluctant retirement. And even then he still managed to hold on to much of his former power as Christian Democratic Union (CDU) chairman.

His two successors were in their 60s before they took office, and until a recent shakeup some of the cabinet had held their seats for the better part of two decades.

This is changing, however. In both the main parties, it is the young men who are making much of the running.

But for an over-hasty grab at power after Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's resignation, 43-year-old Dr. Rainer Barzel could have been at the head of the CDU Party today. He is already the party's parliamentary chairman.

Among the Socialists the man to watch is 42-year-old parliamentary floor leader Helmut Schmidt. It is by no means impossible that he could be the SPD chancellor candidate at the 1969 federal elections.

Either of them could galvanize Bonn's political life and rid the nation's parliament of its greybeard image.

"Do you want to pay your bill now in case prices go up before you finish?"

Dateline: Europe

U Thant's 'Partisanship'

By OTTO VON HANSEBURG

A SHORT while ago the press, or rather a few papers, published a two-line dispatch: invited by the Portuguese to make a personal study of the situation in their overseas provinces, especially Angola and Mozambique, U Thant had refused. His reply was clear, dry, without diplomatic amenities: not even with the customary offer to send at least a representative.

This attitude of the UN's secretary general is in line with the policy of that organization. Not since 1961 has an official mission visited Portuguese Africa.

At that time the problem was still little-known and the professional de-colonizers were inexperienced. Therefore, when Nkrumah's Ghana accused Portugal of practicing forced labor, and, surprise, Lisbon accepted an international investigation of the charges, the International Labor Office sent a team of impartial and honorable men. They made a conscientious and thorough survey and came back with a report that completely refuted the allegations. Moreover, they gave the Portuguese a brilliant testimonial, stating that in social and racial matters they were more advanced than most African countries.

Though the UN's propaganda machinery was successful in more or less covering up this painful affair, the Afro-Asians learned their lesson. Since then, the widest allegations have been made, but everything is done to prevent an objective investigation of the charges. There has not been a single inspection on the spot when commissions are dispatched, they never go further than Algiers or Dar es Salaam.

As long as irresponsible committees pursued such a policy their antics could be ignored. Matters become grave, however, when the highest international civil servant takes the same line, since, according to the Charter, he is supposed to stand above parties.

U Thant, as we have seen more than once in the course of this year, seems to forget this obligation. He has been violently partisan against the Americans in Vietnam, and against the Israelis in the Middle East and the Portuguese in Africa. He no longer acts as the spokesman of a truly international organization, but as the henchman of the most revolutionary elements of the Afro-Asia bloc.

Justice and objectivity do not interest him; he evidently considers the UN a machine for decolonization and for waiting on the white race. It is the states he discriminates against that provide his salary, one of the highest in the world, without even mentioning the other privileges which his function entails. One day those who pay the bills may, despite their sheep-like patience, refuse to finance their own destruction. Then the UN would have nothing left but to close its doors and send back U Thant to Burma.

Housing Solutions

IN a previous letter we examined Canada's housing problem and mentioned that there were two possible solutions. First, we can admit that housing is in some mysterious way different from other goods and services, and then short-circuit the market by politically forcing prices lower than the market would dictate, say by imposing rent and price ceilings, providing subsidized public housing, etc. We suggest this would have serious long-run consequences, but that's another story.

The other alternative involves operating through market forces by letting supply and demand find a price that leaves demanders and suppliers satisfied. Paradoxically that price might be higher or lower than that the public seems to think ought to be.

The government's increase of the CHMC rate to 8 1/2 per cent will, we suspect, increase the supply of resources devoted to housing, though at a cost higher than the public now thinks ought to be. We suspect in time that "ought" will eventually accommodate to what is. We also suspect that the 8 1/2 per cent rate will induce a rate structure lower than what it would be were the government to have done nothing, though the economic analysis that leads to this conclusion is much too complicated to go over here.

We seriously wonder, however, whether higher, rather than lower prices than are currently prevailing, must necessarily exist. The federal solution is to attract more resources by higher prices. Viewed in another way, given current outlays on home and apartment building would go further if the prices of housing inputs were lower. That would have the effect of increasing the supply of housing relative to outlays. This makes more sense to us.

Costs can be lowered in two ways: either reduce the price of inputs at given levels of technology, or use inputs or resources in a more technologically efficient way. We are not suggesting that plumbers, carpenters and roofers receive lower wages, but we do suggest they be more efficiently used and this notoriously immobile labor force become more mobile and less subject to restrictive hiring practices. An important problem in economic growth is to find new technology and means of organizing production.

We suspect that in building construction, however, there is a much greater difference between "best" technology and "average" technology than in most other industries. We suspect that the fund of latent technology would go a long way towards solving the housing "crisis"—real or imagined.

We call upon the government to take a bold step — to establish a royal commission to investigate the size of the "technology lag", its causes, and appropriate corrective policies to follow. Needless to say we would anticipate that the say we would anticipate that the finger would be pointed at not only the building trades unions who have a vested and jealous interest in traditional construction practices, but at non-competitive and slothful contractors as well. What experimentation is permitted in pre-fab houses, synthetic materials, habitant type apartments, etc? The finger would also be pointed at the government itself. What is the effect upon the price of housing of the federal tax on building materials? What would be the effect of eliminating the tariffs on building materials and on construction machinery? In short the commission would be charged with exposing all the bureaucratic props which support high prices in the housing market.

It would seem that a proper and enlightened government policy would be one aimed not at just more of the same in the way of higher prices, or just mortgages for those who can get into the market, but lower prices for all who build, and hence more houses.

Marginal Drivers

I WAS reading the accident statistics for the last long weekend and as a Canadian I struck me that we must be very proud of our driving record when we are able to kill more people on the highways (on a percentage basis) than our neighbors to the south and some of the states don't even have a driver's test.

Being a modest race of people we tend to soft pedal our superior skill at this highway butchery and most of our elected officials regard it as a passing fad. Whoever heard of a safety campaign attracting votes? I must except Spanish police from these remarks as they have a positive program.

There are too many marginal drivers on the roads and remember we all become marginal drivers after consuming alcohol. The answer to the first part of this statement is obvious, take them off the road.

Dr. Gibbs of the National Research Council has come up with a driver reaction testing machine that can weed out the unstable applicants in two minutes. Under our present system any person can go down for a test and drive a low-powered small car around the block in bright sunshine and receive a licence which enables him to drive a big car capable of speeds in excess of 120 miles per hour on a pitch-black night with a heavy rain falling.

The answer to the second part is a little more complicated. I would suggest education but obviously a logger or fisherman or any other hard worker goes to a pub or bar to get feeling good. When he gets past a certain stage he is put out on the parking lot to become a traffic problem and enrich the city coffers by $350. Would it be too much to ask that these fines be placed in a separate fund to pay off-duty policemen to police these parking lots and stop the problem at its source?

One of the real training grounds for sloppy drivers with no regard for the law or the rights of others are the children riding bicycles. I doubt if 10 per cent of the bicycles on the road at night have a light and at least 30 per cent don't have a reflector. They ride on either side of the road, make "U" turns when they feel like it and come racing out of driveways and side roads without stopping. After several years of this disregard for the law and common courtesy they go down and get a car driver's licence. While on the subject of safety I wonder if the city of Victoria could come up with a non-skid type of paint for marking crosswalks instead of that high gloss white paint that feels like a sheet of ice during the wet season?

"NEW COLONIAL" Eyesores

Regarding the demolition at Topaz and Quadra, in view of the housing shortage here I would think the city council has done the right thing in extending the time to enable the owners to get the project going again. When we look around Victoria we see other projects started and stopped by lack of funds and other circumstances, and perhaps we could call them eyesores. One of them has had steel girders pointing skyward for some time. Others have unsightly gaping holes now filling with the winter rains, and then there's the awful mess in the Johnson Street bridge area. Yes sir, time is the essence.

Balloon Idea

Lately someone suggested that airplanes carry homing pigeons which could be released with messages. This plan has some merit, but some drawbacks. In that often people are far off course and have no real idea where they have come down.

It has long seemed to me that every plane should be equipped with weather-type balloons of a striking orange shade, self-inflatable with a nylon cord and which could be released in a soar up into the sky. An orange balloon could be seen a long way, above trees, and in wilderness conditions would be discernible for long distances. It's such an obvious plan I've been waiting for someone to suggest it.

Separatism

The political upheaval in Canada is nothing but a sort of diabolical in the sense that it is an overbearing force at work to take over the whole country under the guise of separatism via Quebec.

The province of Quebec has been made the howling baby of politics while being sustained, through financing, from the whole of Canada generally. Welding Quebec as a threat via the cry of separatism, the takeover would undoubtedly be easy through the success of procuring a new constitution, with power sustained by a different wording.

No such act should be allowed by any government unless an honest plebiscite be taken from all the Canadian people, to whom the country belongs . . . English, French and other nationalities all are important and will be affected by any alteration in the British North America Act — which protects us all.

Who Will Die

Many older people, like myself, will read with interest Dr. Banks' statement quoted from his article in the B.C. Journal of Medicine.

He suggests that doctors should make the decision, or a group of altruistic citizens, but no mention was made about the opinion of the patient, which undeniably is the all-important factor.

In so many cases, which many of us have known, it would have been more humane to ease and assist an incurable patient's end rather than prolong his suffering.

Is His Influence Growing or Slipping?

McNamara's Position Puzzles Washington

By BOB HORTON, from Washington

A quiet debate is going on here these days: Is Defence Secretary Robert McNamara's stature within the Johnson administration slipping?

Opinions range from assertions that McNamara is stronger than ever in one of the world's most powerful jobs, to claims that he is losing influence.

A body of opinion—largely outside the Pentagon, the defence department headquarters—points to widened bombing of North Vietnam as evidence that McNamara is yielding ground to more hawkish elements advising President Johnson.

* * *

Pentagon insiders considered this thesis wrong, but readily state that McNamara would like to move on to a new field, perhaps heading a university or foundation.

It is rather firmly believed within the Pentagon that McNamara is staying on primarily out of loyalty to President Johnson.

Johnson, it is said, insists he wants McNamara — "the perffessor," he sometimes calls him — to stay on as chief manager of the Vietnam war effort.

McNamara, in turn, feels a sense of responsibility for seeing the war through to a military or diplomatic conclusion.

Most officials feel that McNamara will remain fast at his station at least through the 1968 U.S. presidential election.

After that, regardless of the outcome, he may step down.

Several factors have contributed to notions McNamara might be swinging less weight in high councils of government.

Foremost is the authorization of new targets for attack in North Vietnam while McNamara, at least publicly, has tended to rate the air campaign as secondary in the war. He says the conflict must be won by ground fighting in the South.

* * *

Then there are his running hassle with Congress over development of the F-111 fighter-bomber, on which a great amount of McNamara's prestige rides; his acceding to pressures for an anti-ballistic missile defence; and continuing complaints about operational aspects of the war, such as ammunition shortages.

One proof that McNamara still holds President Johnson's ear is the fact that the docks of Haiphong, North Vietnam's main port, remain untouched. McNamara contends it would be too risky trying to hit the port where Soviet ships often are unloading.

Naval 'Victory' May Be First Step in New War

Sinking of Elath Planned?

By HAROLD MORRISON
From London

Sinking of the Israeli destroyer Elath suggests the Egyptians finally have learned how to handle sophisticated missiles, a job they appeared unable to do during the six-day war last June.

* * *

At that time, semi-official British sources estimated Egypt had about 100 ground-to-ground missiles with a range of up to 400 miles and at least 18 patrol boats fitted with the Soviet short-range Styx missile — the type that shattered the Elath last Saturday with heavy loss of life.

* * *

The missile attack caught the Israelis by surprise, indicating a degree of vulnerability that contrasts to the impression of a strong, tight-knit and highly-efficient force able to score a relatively easy victory over the Arabs last June.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt had been dealt a devastating blow with the defeat of his army. Temptation to recoup his losses would seem irresistible, especially with the strong support offered by the Soviet Union.

Now that his forces have indicated they can operate missiles efficiently, Nasser might be tempted to extend the attack area. There has been much speculation that the Elath attack was deliberately planned as the first step in what may become the fourth Arab-Israeli war.

* * *

By TED SELL, from Washington

The Pentagon has no intelligence reports to indicate Russia has supplied North Vietnam with surface-to-surface missiles such as those used by Egypt Saturday to sink an Israeli destroyer, defence officials said Tuesday.

(Eastern European diplomats said Monday at the United Nations that weapons similar to those used by Egypt to sink the Israeli destroyer Elath have already been installed in North Vietnam and are ready for action.)

The 15-mile-range Styx — a NATO code name; the Russian name is not known — can be fired either from motor torpedo boats or from shore installations. Twenty feet long and carrying a one-ton high explosive warhead, it flies like a small jet plane and is guided by radar to its target.

Navy officials said the Styx, like a jet plane, can be shot down by American jets or by anti-aircraft fire. In addition, electronics counter-measures devices aboard U.S. vessels can jam the guidance radar, navy officers said, and probably cause the missile to miss its target.

Russians Show Interest In New German Dialogue

By NEAL ASCHEERSON, from Berlin

There have been hints in Bonn that the Soviet Union is showing interest in a renewed dialogue with West Germany.

Although Willy Brandt, the foreign minister, stated on Oct. 13 in a Bundestag debate that the results of soundings in Moscow were "not very encouraging," the New York Times has since quoted "East European sources" predicting a Moscow conference of Warsaw Pact leaders to "prepare a new minimal program for approaching the division of Germany."

* * *

This could be the result of a meeting between Brandt and the Soviet ambassador in Bonn, Mr. Tsarapkin, which spokesmen in Bonn claimed had at last revived a real dialogue with Moscow. Brandt seems to have intrigued the Russians with his proposal—voiced a week earlier in Berlin—for a resumption of the use of force by West Germany which might also include East Germany in its terms.

The mystery about the story of an imminent conference—to be called during the Moscow celebrations of the 50th anniversary of the revolution—is that the Soviet Union's allies have made very clear that a lot more than a non-violence declaration would be necessary for any normalisation of relations with Bonn.

Poland and East Germany especially—and up to now Russia too—have repeated their three fundamental conditions: recognition of the existence of East Germany, acceptance of present European frontiers, and West German renunciation of any form of nuclear armaments.

These remain vital interests of West Germany's eastern neighbors, and the days when Moscow could simply declare a change of policy on behalf of the whole bloc are past. But there have been signs in recent weeks of intense confidential activity between Bonn and Moscow.

An East German source admitted a few weeks ago that he was uneasy about Soviet preoccupation with the Chinese problem, which could lead to a deal with Western Europe including the German question which might imperil East Germany's efforts to secure herself against West German claims.

Young Winston Makes Bid

By JOHN LEBLANC
from London

Political Britain will be turning an eye for the next 10 days on a drab section of Lancashire called Gorton where another Churchill is trying to get a foot in the door of Parliament.

* * *

Nothing notable has happened in Gorton since about the year 920 when the Saxons and Danes spilled so much blood in a battle that the field was named Place of Gore, later Goretown. Now a second Winston S. Churchill threatens to rescue it from anonymity.

Young Churchill, grandson of the one and only Sir Winston, has been following in his renowned forebear's footsteps in several ways up to the point of his nomination Monday as Conservative party candidate for Gorton. Voting day is Nov. 2.

Like the late former prime minister, the 27-year-old candidate was a war correspondent and author before making the jump into politics. He covered the Arab-Israeli war this year and then he and his father, Randolph, turned out a quickie book on it that sold well.

Another parallel is that Sir Winston — then 26 — first was sent to Parliament by Oldham just eight miles from Gorton on the other side of Manchester. But their prospects differ. The current Winston has no safe Tory seat but a tough Labor bastion to crack.

It's a working class riding of 56,000 electors partly in Manchester and partly in Lancashire County districts. It's backward economically, sprinkled with Communists and other leftists and for a dozen years was in the hip pocket of Konni Zilliacus, an ultra-left wing Laborite who died this year.

* * *

Until Churchill came along, Conservative hopefuls were not exactly knocking themselves out for the privilege of trying to overturn the 8,300 plurality of the 1966 general election. However, since he got the nod from the party, the Tory outlook has perked up.

The big shot in the arm was the Tories' recent snatching of a byelection win in Walthamstow West, an even more solid Labor stronghold. They had an 18-per-cent vote swing there and need only 10 in Gorton.

The 630-seat House of Commons is made up of 357 Labor MPs, who include the Speaker and his two Deputy Speakers, as well as 255 Conservatives, 12 Liberals and a Welsh Nationalist, with five seats vacant. The Speaker and his deputies are virtually non-voting MPs.

* * *

Churchill faces four opponents. The Labor candidate is a 47-year-old headmaster. The Liberal is a 22-year-old post-graduate student who wears a "Make Love Not War" badge and jeans held up with a three-inch wide leather belt. The Communist is the party's Manchester area organizer.

* * *

John Creasey, 58, the author, is pursuing his expensive hobby with his own personal party, the All-Party Alliance, which claims the country should be run by a coalition of its most able men, including Prince Philip. This is his third byelection try of the year.

Science 'Works' Artificial Limbs

By JOHN DAVY
From London

Very subtle control of artificial limbs by means of a tiny electronic device may become possible if experiments at West Hendon hospital here are successful.

The experiments are being conducted at the new Power Limbs Research Unit which has just been set up by the Medical Research Council under Dr. A. B. Kinnier Wilson.

The unit is working on a tiny electronic device as thick as a match and less than an inch long, designed to be "injected" into a muscle through a thick hypodermic needle.

A tiny package strapped to the outside of the limb will beam radio waves at the device, which will return them, modified by the electric currents produced in the muscle.

This signal, which varies as the user tenses or relaxes the muscle, can then be used for very precise control of a powered limb.

'Dad, Dad Find Diamonds'

BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP)—"Dad, dad, just find one of those diamonds. It will explain everything. In the bushes by the barrel."

The words were blurted out Tuesday from the prisoner's box by Victor Ernest Hoffman, 21, of Lusk, Sask., after his father testified at the son's preliminary hearing into a joint charge of capital murder in the shooting last summer of James and Evelyn Peterson of Shell Lake, Sask. Seven of the Peterson's nine children also were slain in their farm home near Shell Lake, 125 miles northwest of Saskatoon.

The father, Robert Hoffman, had testified Victor was not home when he arose at 6:30 or 7 a.m. Aug. 15. But about 8 a.m. Victor arrived at the farm near Lusk, 60 miles southeast of Shell Lake, driving a car.

"I asked him where he had been," the father testified. "He said he could not sleep so got up early and went down to another farm to see if he could see any deer." He said Victor had been home the previous evening and had not heard him go out. Hoffman said his son spent the rest of the day, Aug. 15, working on the Hoffman farm.

W. J. Lang, 35, who farms across Highway 3 from the Peterson farm, said he found Peterson's body about 9 a.m. Aug. 15.

Supposed to Meet

Lang said he was supposed to meet Peterson at a nearby grain bin early in the morning but when he did not appear, went to the farm house.

"I went up to the door and knocked but there was no answer. I knocked again and then opened the door to call. The inside kitchen door was open. I saw Jim lying on the floor, dead. He just had his shorts on. He was lying on his stomach. I didn't go in. There was quite a lot of blood around."

He said he drove to Shell Lake in Peterson's car and called the RCMP detachment at Spiritwood, 16 miles west. He then returned to a lane leading to the farm house to await the arrival of police.

Saw Five Children

Dorothy was 11. The other victims were Jean, 17, Mary, 13, Pearl, 9, William, 5, Collin, 2, and Larry, 1.

Cpl. Richards said he then looked into the bedroom off the living room and saw two beds containing five children.

"All five appeared to be dead and all appeared to have been wounded about the head."

On the bed containing Jean and Pearl, he saw "another girl lying on her stomach, her head and shoulders were protruding from under the covers. I saw movement. This was the only sign of life in the room."

Cpl. Richards said he did nothing more in the house at that time except to go to the master bedroom off the kitchen. But he saw no one there.

Then he went outside, talked to Lang, and then went back into the house where he found four-year-old Phyllis unharmed. He carried her outside and neighbors took care of her. The only other surviving child, Kativ, 20, was living with her husband, Lee Hill, at Chetwynd, B.C.

The corporal said he then went to Shell Lake and called for police assistance from North Battleford and for a doctor from Spiritwood.

He met the doctor at the lane to the farm house. They were walking together toward the house when Cpl. Richards spotted a body lying outside at the rear. That was Mrs. Peterson's body. Nearby lay infant Larry, also apparently dead.

Countries Grow Up

From UPI

Two nations moved closer Tuesday to independence.

Australia said the eight-square-mile, phosphate-rich Pacific island of Nauru will become independent next Jan. 31. The island, with 4,500 population, has been administered by Britain, Australia and New Zealand. Meanwhile, Britain said sugar-rich Mauritius in the Indian Ocean will become an independent member of the Commonwealth next March 12.

A New Experiment in SEX EDUCATION

How would you like to be a teacher instructed to give high school students a course in sex education without any special training? To a class where one girl had attempted suicide; two had had illegitimate babies; and nine complained of drinking parents? Read the intriguing story in November Reader's Digest... how, lacking special qualifications, but possessing objectivity, imagination and a genuine respect for young people, this teacher in a small-town high school developed a course which brought both criticism and profound thanks. It's a very different look at the sex education problem... now in November Reader's Digest.

Shell Report Denies Natural Gas Rumor

MacMillan

Ontario Court Delays Stock Ruling

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Appeal Court Tuesday reserved judgment on the appeal of Viola MacMillan, 63, Canadian mining promoter, on her conviction for wash trading.

Mrs. MacMillan was convicted last March 17 for wash trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange in shares of Consolidated Golden Arrow Mines, a company she controlled, in July, 1964. She was fined $10,000 by Judge Garth Moore and given a nine-month indeterminate sentence.

FREE ON BAIL
She is free on $15,000 bail pending outcome of the appeal.

Arthur Martin, one of Mrs. MacMillan's lawyers, argued Tuesday his client had disregarded the suggestion of her broker, R. J. Breckenridge, that she make her trades off the exchange floor because she didn't want to risk violating the Ontario Securities Act.

TRADING RESTRICTED
He said several sections of the Act restrict trading in securities to the exchange floor.

Mrs. MacMillan's transactions, in which she bought 244,000 shares of Consolidated Golden Arrow for her husband, George, and nine friends in one day in July, later selling 25,000 shares after the price of the stock had nearly tripled, did not fall within the exemptions to floor trading allowed in the Act, Martin contended.

TRIAL EVIDENCE
Martin suggested the trial judge misdirected himself when he said he could find nothing in the Securities Act to prohibit Mrs. MacMillan making her trades outside the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Crown counsel Roderick Cor-

An interim report by Shell Canada Ltd. has given the lie to local rumors that the company has made important natural gas discoveries in the Pacific Ocean off the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

Shell says in its first two holes off the entrance to Barkley Sound it encountered small gas showings that were of no commercial importance.

Shell's offshore drilling rig which has been in Port Alberni for the past ten days undergoing modifications to its anchorage system is now ready for duty once again, and it is due to leave the Port today for location No. 3. Shell Canada's consolidated net income for the first nine months is $32,623,000 (98 cents) compared with $31,684,000 (59 cents) in the corresponding period of 1966. Oil and gas production rose but sales of refined products dipped slightly.

OFF TO GOOD START

General Motors reports its 1966 models are off to a good start with an increase of 18 per cent in sales over a year ago. Sales in Canada were up 11 per cent in the corresponding periods.

The increased sales for the quarter ended Sept. 30 were $3,800,000,000 against $3,300,000,000, and the gain in net income $149,000,000 (51 cents) against $100,000,000 (34 cents) was even greater.

The only dull spot was in GM's overseas factories where production was down 3 per cent from a year ago. The increased sales reflect only part of the period in which Ford was struck.

CASH TO FULFILL

Canada Mailing Co. Ltd. in addition to paying its regular 25-cent quarterly dividend, is planning to pay a redeemable stock dividend, subject to approval of shareholders and confirmation of the income tax department on its tax-free status.

The plan is to create 10,000,000 preferred shares which will be distributed at the rate of five for each common share outstanding. The preferred shares to be redeemed immediately will be worth $1 cash each.

TO LATE FOR BOOM

While the plant new grain elevator in Vancouver harbor is in the midst of construction, the flow of grain through the port has dried out to a trickle. Isn't it always thus?

What has gone wrong with the grain trade in Vancouver is that the U.S. has dumped wheat into the Japanese market at a price about 13 cents a bushel below the Canadian price.

The Chinese market also is drying up with no new agreements in sight, and little grain is moving out of Canadian western ports for Russia.

Trade Minister Winters says he expects the Japanese trade in return to normal as U.S. prices are eventually restored to normal under the new International Wheat Agreement to come into force next July.

Meantime there is a free market in wheat and deals are being made on a highly competitive level.

EASTERN TV BOUGHT

Western Broadcasting Co. of Vancouver has bought the Barrie, Ont., TV station from CHUM Ltd. of Toronto. An unconfirmed report says the purchase price was $3,000,000.

OIL PROFIT UP

Third quarter earnings of Imperial Oil were higher than a year ago at $25,500,000 (80 cents). In the 1966 quarter ended Sept. 30, the net earnings were $25,000,000 (73 cents).

NEW VENTURES

A fertilizer plant is being built at Chaleur, N.B., by Belandine Fertilizer Co., and the company is marketing $12,000,000, a per cent first mortgage bond at par to provide funds for the new operation.

Belandine is jointly owned by Albright and Wilson, Britain's second largest chemical company, and by Brunswick Mining and Smelting. The N.B. government is putting up $3,500,000 as a loan for the building program, and the mortgage bonds are guaranteed by Albright and Wilson.

ASBESTOS COSTS MORE

Johns Manville Co. Ltd. has increased its prices of asbestos fibres on an average of two per cent. The new prices range from $40 a ton for short fibres to $1,400 a ton for No. 1 long fibre.

NEW PLANT

Potter Distilleries Ltd., whose new distilling plant at Langley B.C. was opened last year, is offering 325,000 common shares at $4. The company now is in production, manufacturing variety of spirits and liquors.

Over Ford Contract

Rebels Fight Pact

DETROIT (UPI)—Walter Reuther, fighting a skilled trades rebellion within his United Auto Workers, warned Tuesday that rank-and-file rejection of the UAW's record Ford contract would spark the longest auto strike in United States history.

"I know that we have squeezed every cent that we can out of the Ford Motor Co.," Reuther said in a special one-hour television appeal in which he urged Ford's 160,000 UAW members to approve the pact and end their 46-day-old strike. "They will be walking the bricks a long, long time if they reject the contract," Reuther said. He accused his opponents of "reckless irresponsibility" and said they "are living in a dream world."

But dissident skilled tradesmen, in a television show right after Reuther's, urged Ford's skilled workers to reject the pact.

FATTER GAINS

Earl Smith, one of the television panelists from the "Dollar an hour now" skilled trades committee, said a "no" vote would "give brother Reuther the ammunition he needs to go back to the bargaining table" and win a pact with fatter gains for Ford's 23,000 skilled workers.

For the first time, skilled tradesmen have independent power to veto the entire pact and kill the agreement which Ford and the UAW reached early Sunday.

Ford workers, who already have lost nearly $400,000,000 in wages since the strike began at midnight Sept. 6, began voting on the pact Tuesday at separate meetings of the union's 61 Ford locals.

You CAN Stop Smoking: A New Proven Way

What kind of smoker are you? Tension type, habitual, or real addict? Unless you first find out what kind you are, your chances of quitting are slim. Once you figure out why you smoke you can work out a personal program based on the methods used in successful smoking-withdrawal clinics.

Here is now how for many who have tried before and failed... a new proven way to stop smoking is in November Reader's Digest. You may be able to stop by just a simple breathing exercise... or break stubborn reflexes with little tricks. If you really want to stop, get November Reader's Digest today.

NOT IMPOSSIBLE

Luns, a strong supporter of British membership, said he does not exclude the possibility of a breakdown of talks among the six current market members on the issue.

At the one-day meeting in Brussels next month, ministers will discuss the specific problems which must be solved in connection with the admission of new members. These cover the vital issues of Britain's economic situation and especially its monetary and financial problems, agricultural policy and Commonwealth commitments.

WILL PRESS ON

Prime Minister Wilson made it clear in London Tuesday that Britain would press on with its campaign to join the Common Market despite France's intensified efforts to keep it out.

After the ministers adjourned their discussions on the membership applications of Britain,

Common Market

New Crisis A-Building

LUXEMBOURG (Reuters)—European Common Market ministers appear to be heading for a new crisis over France's efforts to keep Britain out of the community for the time being.

France is at odds with its five community partners—Belgium, Holland, Italy, Luxembourg and West Germany—which favor early negotiations on the British application for entry.

At a two-day meeting of market ministers which ended here Tuesday, France took an even tougher line against talks with Britain in the near future.

None of its five partners left any doubt about wanting negotiations with Britain as soon as possible after a brief period of consultations among the present Common Market members.

But French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville set out prior conditions for the start of talks with Britain which could make it virtually impossible for Britain to come to the conference table.

WILL PRESS ON

Prime Minister Wilson made it clear in London Tuesday that Britain would press on with its campaign to join the Common Market despite France's intensified efforts to keep it out.

After the ministers adjourned their discussions on the membership applications of Britain,

Denmark, Norway and Ireland until Nov. 20, Dutch Foreign Minister Joseph Luns told reporters there has been no French veto "but the French attitude is not encouraging at all."

Aiming to Assist

Douglas Rotarians presented pool table Tuesday to Salvation Army's Harbor Lights Mission on Yates Street to help in Army's rehabilitation program for men down on their luck in Greater Victoria. Cut in Price Wanted In U.S. Power Deal

VANCOUVER (CP)—The National Energy Board Tuesday opened hearings here on Westcoast Transmission Company's application for an alteration in its licence to export natural gas.

Westcoast is seeking a reduction in the price it will receive for natural gas exported to El Paso Natural Gas Co. in the United States.

As proceedings moved through their initial stages, the board under the chairmanship of I. N. McKinnon received several highly technical exhibits from Darrell Braidwood, counsel for Westcoast.

These included complete details of Westcoast's proposed agreement with El Paso.

Basically, Westcoast is asking the board to sanction alterations in an agreement negotiated last year in order to meet U.S. federal power commission objections.

The application puts both the board and the federal government in a difficult position. Earlier this year Ottawa approved Westcoast's original application for permission to sell additional gas to El Paso at 35.42 cents a thousand cubic feet, deeming the price fair and reasonable.

Subsequently, the federal power commission in the U.S. ruled that El Paso could not pay more than 29.5 cents.

Westcoast now is seeking Canadian approval for a price agreement signed Oct. 2 on the terms outlined by the U.S. authority.

Pearson Praises Pupils

Prime Minister Pearson sent a message to Central Junior High School students Tuesday when they staged a pageant in celebration of United Nations Day.

He praised the "imaginative way of learning about the United Nations," shown by both school and students.

A parade of nations, representing ethnic groups in the school was climaxed by the symbolic lighting of flares, including a replica of the globe.

UN SPEAKER

Guest speaker was J. N. Corry of the Victoria Branch, United Nations Association.

A fanfare which preceded the program was given by Bruce Oxtel, Neil Blackstock and Bill Stewart.

Taking part in the parade of 16 nations were Debbie Wright, Carla Rose, Bruce Kirkley, Rolf Gillestein, Michael Motek, Rudolph Blanco, Karen Burek, Anne Janada, Sara Mondo, Cathie Crow, Kathryn Gullrie, Greg Clark, Els Cost, Robin Parson, Susan Emberlin, Paula Le Baron and David Blades.

Also taking part in the production were David McIntosh, Way Lim Lee, Dennis Simson and Daryl McGregor.

Courtroom Parade

Undiplomatic Theft Chided

An 18-year-old sailor who stole an expensive camera from a visiting dignitary received a lecture in central magistrate's court Tuesday from Magistrate William Ostler.

The magistrate told Douglas Stoddart, CFB Esquimalt: "Don't you realize the bad impression it gives visiting dignitaries when someone assigned to assist them steals from them?"

"You should be an ambassador for your country. Instead, you steal."

Court was told last week that Stoddart was assigned as a baggage handler for the entourage of the deputy vice-president of the Republic of China, Oct. 13.

On the way to the airport, a briefcase owned by K. T. Hu came open and the contents were spilled out. Stoddart was later seen with the $170 camera around his neck.

Stoddart, who had pleaded guilty to theft over $50, was fined $100.

A man who had a backyard fire going when fires were prohibited in the city was fined $35.

Mahindar Dhillon, 841 Bay, pleaded guilty to lighting a fire unlawfully.

Court was told that firemen told Dhillon on Sept. 17 to put the fire out but that fires were prohibited. Fifty-two minutes later an assistant fire chief attended and found Dhillon had the fire still going and was burning an old chesterfield.

Carl De Wolfe, 1016 Balmoral, was fined $25 when he pleaded guilty to discharging a firearm within the city limits.

De Wolfe fired a shot from a 30-30 rifle into the ground in an attempt to stop a family dispute, court was told.

Sarwan Johal Singh, 550 Johnson, and Leslie Wilson, 3986 Cedar Hill Cross Road, were fined $50 each for consuming liquor in a public place. They drank wine on the Johnson Street wharf Sept. 27, court was told.

Robert Brown, 726 Goldstream, was fined $150 for driving while under suspension.

Fined for careless driving: Richard Hodgkinson, 640 Wilson, $35; Donald Marshall, 2625 Victor, $40.

Dorothy Skillen, 1040 Lyall, was placed on a suspended sentence and a $250 bond and probation for one year on two charges of false pretences.

She presented worthless cheques at Woodward's, 3125 Douglas, and Safeway, 3555 Douglas, last month. She pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing.

Mass Escape Foiled At Mental Hospital

COQUITLAM (CP)—A planned mass escape by 80 patients at Riverview Mental Hospital was foiled by nurses and RCMP, it was disclosed Monday by Dr. W. J. G. McFarlane, acting superintendent. Dr. McFarlane said the plan was to capture the staff, take their keys and lock them in their rooms.

Charlotte's Latest

Court Unseats Ottawa Petrel

OTTAWA (CP)—Charlotte Whitton's latest rebarb recipe backfired Tuesday when the Ontario Supreme Court ruled the former mayor of Ottawa must give up her aldermanic seat on city council.

Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson said the 71-year-old spinster had forfeited her council seat by bringing a lawsuit against the city early this summer.

Her successful lawsuit challenged the validity of a 10-year lease granted by the city to the Central Canada Exhibition Association for operation of Lansdowne Park, home of an annual exhibition and pro football's Rough Riders.

The lease had to be revised.

ACT CONTRAVENED

When Miss Whitton's lawsuit was launched, Ottawa businessman Sam McLean filed one of his own in county court. He charged it was a contravention of the Ontario Municipal Act for a member of council to take legal action against a municipality in which she holds office.

That court ruled against McLean but he took an appeal to the Ontario Supreme Court. Tuesday's decision reversed the earlier one and left vacant the Capital Ward seat Miss Whitton had won in 1966.

MAY RUN AGAIN

But Miss Whitton, who has never passed up a fight, is eligible to run in a bye-election expected within two months. She told friends she would do so if the appeal decision went against her.

A bye-election win would enable Miss Whitton to continue her full-voiced attacks on anything and everything in city affairs until the next municipal election in 1969.

FIRST TO SIT

The announcement that Miss Whitton was disqualified from council was made in board of control—a touch of irony since she was the first woman to sit on that body and is the first elected official in Ottawa to be turned out of office.

Her defeat as mayor came in 1964 at the hands of Don Reid, a soft-spoken furniture dealer whose promise of a "no fuss" administration appealed to voters almost grown used to eruptions from the Sussex Drive city hall. He now is in his second term, this one for three years.

Death Rule Error

TORONTO (CP)—Metropolitan Toronto's chief acting coroner Tuesday located the death certificate issued prematurely by a coroner Saturday night and missing since.

Dr. Fred Cruickshank discovered the certificate had been taken by an undertaker who was supposed to have removed the body of Mrs. Mary Sotnick from her home here.

Relatives found the 79-year-old woman was still breathing, although coroner Dr. Elie Ocas had pronounced her dead and placed a death certificate on her pillow.

Mrs. Sotnick still was in poor condition in hospital Tuesday.

Cruickshank, who will discuss the case with Deputy Attorney-General Randall Dick, said he was "not contemplating" suspending Dr. Ocas because such mistakes are "not that uncommon."

Fatal Air Crash in Tokyo Blamed on Pilot Fatigue

TOKYO (UPI)—Japanese news agencies reported Tuesday that aviation experts investigating the cause of the March 4, 1966, crash of a Canadian Pacific Airlines jetliner have concluded the accident resulted from "pilot error due to fatigue."

The news agency said it learned CPA took issue with the Japanese findings.

The crash, at Tokyo International Airport, took the lives of 64 of 72 persons aboard the DC8 jetliner, including the pilot.

One of the passengers killed was Mrs. Norma MacDonald, Victoria art lover and former owner of the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, who was on an art-buying trip to the Orient.

Finley Added 'Class' When He Hired DiMaggio

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Charlie Finley wanted one man to manage his ball club, Joe DiMaggio.

This was no sudden brainstorm with Finley. He had given the idea a great deal of thought.

Joe DiMaggio managing Oakland? It sounded like a natural. Why not? DiMaggio always has been enormously popular around San Francisco's Bay Area where he grew up and still spends much of his time, and if he were to manage the new Oakland franchise, Finley reasoned, many people would come out to the ball park simply to see him.

When Finley gets an idea he likes to tell others about it. So about a month ago, he went to Frank Lane, who was once his general manager at Kansas City and now is a trouble shooter for Baltimore, and asked his opinion.

"What would you think if I hired DiMaggio to manage for me in Oakland?" Finley asked Lane approximately a month ago, providing some idea what he thought his chances were at the time of getting permission to shift his franchise.

"You'd certainly be getting a class guy," answered Lane, "but I question whether you can get him to manage your club."

Frank Lane confirmed that conversation Monday in Clearwater, Fla., where he, Harry Dalton and other members of the Orioles' family were in the middle of an organizational meeting with Hank Bauer and his coaches.

Finley named Bob Kennedy his new manager Friday but only a few hours before the announcement Kennedy said, "I was just one of several people he told me he was interested in."

DiMaggio was Finley's No. 1 interest. There's little doubt

Finley spoke to DiMaggio about managing next season before he named him executive vice-president and there's equally little doubt Joe said no thanks to that first proposition.

The memory of that December day in 1951 when DiMaggio retired as an active player with the Yankees still remains vivid. They asked him whether he had ever given any thought to managing.

"I have enough trouble trying to manage myself without trying to manage 25 others," he said.

From what he says, he still feels the same way.

As Finley's chief executive now, DiMaggio inherits the job recently relinquished by Ed Lopat and once held by Frank Lane.

Finley signed Lane to an eight-year contract in 1961 and after Lane served only eight months he went to court and won a release from his contract as well as a $133,000 settlement.

"Finley pays more attention to me now than when I worked for him," quips the always colorful Lane.

"I think he's making a helluva good move in getting Joe DiMaggio to work for him. It's a fine piece of window decorating for the Oakland club and Joe will help a lotta boys in spring training. Instead of going to camp with the Yankees, he'll be with the A's, that's all."

Finley probably is paying DiMaggio somewhere between $40,000 and $50,000 as vice-president. The original announcement said Joe would take over most of the A's administrative duties but don't hold your breath waiting.

"Mr. Finley will continue to be the general manager, no matter what title he gives anyone else," says Lane. "But I don't think DiMaggio will have any trouble with him. Finley is a hero worshipper and he couldn't find a better hero to worship than Joe DiMaggio, of whom I'm very fond."

"Besides, if a crisis arises, Finley will defer to DiMaggio, and Joe won't let Finley get in his hair because he probably won't be around that much."

When the news got around that DiMaggio had tied up with Finley, many of DiMaggio's friends shook their heads. One of them may have summed up the situation best of all. He said rather sadly:

"Say it ain't so, Joe!"

AT THE 19th With Harry Young

Stuart Jones, the New Zealand amateur golfer who won the Canadian Amateur golf championship at Royal Colwood last August, is hoping to bring the trophy back personally to Edmonton, where the 1968 championship is being played.

In a letter to the RCGA, Stuart says he would like to defend the trophy and is trying to find a reason to bring him back to Canada at that time.

The Canadian champion also wrote that his attempt to take the New Zealand championship and so make himself a "double" national champion ended in a glorious failure.

The winner was John Derry, another popular member of the New Zealand Commonwealth team. John won on the 37th hole of the final when he sank a birdie putt.

Bryan Silk, the non-playing captain of the New Zealand Commonwealth team, said it was the finest final he had ever seen.

Derry took a four-hole lead in the first round by shooting a five-under-par 66 over the 6,560-yard Bridge course. But Jones, who had a creditable 69 over the first 18 holes, came charging back on the second 18 and had a one-hole lead as they teed off for the last scheduled hole. Derry canned a 25-foot birdie putt on the par-four finisher to square the match, then went on to win at the extra hole.

Jones shot a six-under 65 on the second 18 and both players were eight under par for the scheduled 36 holes.

Jones and Ross Murray met in a rematch of their Canadian final in the New Zealand semifinals, and Jones was again the winner, 2 and 1. But Derry ended a personal streak for Jones by making him the loser in a final for the first time in his golfing career. It was Derry's third New Zealand championship.

More than 100 members turned up for the Glen Meadows prize presentation party at the clubhouse last Saturday.

Hal Jacobson took the men's championship and Emma Silverberg (mother of the Canadian Commonwealth team player) took the ladies' championship trophy.

The handicap championship winners were R. M. Stewart and Mrs. Daphne Dagg, who also shared the husband and wife trophy with Digger.

The ten-hole tournament was won by H. Kennedy.

Rain interfered for a couple of weeks with the Victoria District senior but last week the Uplands team of Jim Douglas and Jack Betts kept the holders from Gorge Vale, Moke Morgan and Ed Pescoc, on the 16th hole at Royal Colwood.

Next challenge comes from Victoria Golf Club with Gorge Vale the venue.

George Bigelow, who leads the Canadian seniors team in the seniors' international at Pinhurst next month, is not going to be caught short of practice for the world event.

Despite the 66-miles-an-hour wind and the lazing rain George made a morning circuit of the Victoria course Sunday along with George Strath, Alan Taylor and Keith Olson. Bigelow was around in two-over-par 71.

After the rout of the British team in the Ryder Cup matches which ended Sunday, the suggestion has been made that this popular international contest would be enhanced if the United States pros were pitted against a Commonwealth team instead of against the obviously-overmatched Britishers.

One could imagine that the Americans might not have it all their own way if players such as Peter Thomson, Gary Player, Harold Henning, Bob Charles and George Knudsen were added to the best of the British pros.

A similar suggestion was turned down for the amateur Walker Cup matches but here, too, a Commonwealth team would be stern opposition for the Americans. It would seem that the best of the players who took part in the Commonwealth matches here this year would at least have an even chance of winning the amateur cup.

One of the problems, for both professionals and amateurs, would be the team selecting. It would not be an enviable task but the change would give a new kick to two famous competitions.

Red Carpet Treatment

Kings Invade Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Two Los Angeles Kings got the red carpet treatment Monday when they arrived in town to prepare for their National Hockey League game Wednesday against the Maple Leafs.

Coach Red Kelly and goalie Terry Sawchuk both were given rings emblematic of Toronto's Stanley Cup victory last spring, in which both Kelly and Sawchuk played prominent roles.

They also were presented watches from the city in honor of the championship, and gold lifetime passes to Maple Leaf Gardens.

Also on hand to greet the returning pair were a number of reporters and fans, anxious to pepper them with questions.

The Kings, owned by former Toronto financier Jack Kent Cooke, were considered the joke of the league's six expansion clubs last summer when they went with youth in drafting.

About the only two positive aspects of the club then apparent were having Sawchuk in goal and Kelly in control.

But the jokes have since turned sour and, as long as the Kings can maintain their momentum, there could be a lot of red faces in the NHL before the season is over.

The Kings are the only unbeaten team in the league with three wins and two ties in five games while the Leafs are one step out of the basement in the Eastern Division with four points.

The Kings still have their detractors. One of them, Bud Poll, general manager of Philadelphia Flyers, recently suggested the bubble could burst with the loss of just one player.

"They're a skating club," he said, "not big, but skaters. You can win a lot of games skating, but they need one thing to keep winning."

"Sawchuk must play a lot and play well."

Sawchuk has played in only one of the Kings' victories so far this year and beat Chicago Black Hawks 5-3 Sunday. He was hurt in training and was replaced by Wayne Rutledge, who allowed only 10 goals in the first four games.

But last season, alternating with John Bower, Sawchuk got into only 28 games of the 72 scheduled and came on to beat the Black Hawks in the Stanley Cup final only after Bower had faltered.

Kelly, predictably, is more than enthusiastic about his crew of youngsters and former league rejects.

"The thing I like about them is that they never give up. Two or three times we've been down a couple of goals and they've come back."

McKeta Reorganizes, Steelers Now Tyees

By JIM TANG

Victoria Steelers have ceased to exist and there is a new club in the Western Division of the Continental Football League.

Replacing the Steelers are the Victoria Tyees, and they not only intend to complete the current season but are planning to return for next season with a better club and a much better organization for what they are sure will be a better as well as a bigger league.

Coach Don McKeta, who took over the franchise a few weeks ago with the Steelers mired deep in a financial morass, announced the change in name yesterday and outlined his plan to keep professional football in Victoria.

EXPLAINS TO PUBLIC

He will be in Victoria today to explain it to anyone interested at a luncheon meeting set for noon at Hy's Steak House.

Since acquiring the Victoria franchise, McKeta has set up a company known as Athletic Enterprises Incorporated, of which he is president. It will eventually be owned and operated by himself and nine directors.

Under the plan set up by McKeta, Athletic Enterprises will issue 1,000 shares of voting stock and 99,000 shares of non-voting stock at one dollar a share.

SHARES PARTNERS

It is McKeta's hope to find nine co-owners, a status that can be acquired by the purchase of a 100-share block of voting stock and 4,900 shares of non-voting stock — a total investment of $5,000.

McKeta, who has taken 100 shares of voting stock for a 10 per cent interest in the club, already has two partners in Seattle, attorney Dan Reaugh, who drew up incorporation papers and is the secretary of Athletic Enterprises, and Joe Price, owner of a Seattle sheet-metal business.

That leaves seven vacancies to be filled on the projected board of directors, and McKeta said yesterday.

LOCAL OWNERSHIP

"I want these people to be from Victoria because this is going to be a Victoria football team," McKeta said yesterday.

"I believe that a well-run football team can have a future in Victoria and I would like to see it owned by Victorians."

And it would be, of course, if McKeta can find seven interested Victorians to purchase $5,000 worth of stock each. He believes that he can, and that he will get considerable support from Island football fans who find a directorship out of reach of their financial resources but are willing to invest a few dollars each to back the effort to keep a club here.

The other 50,000 shares of non-voting stock is available to them in any quantity from one share up.

WILL COMPLETE SEASON

While looking ahead to next season, McKeta has been carrying on with the work of completing the current schedule on a pay-as-he-goes basis.

"We are going to be able to complete the season," he said. "We have paid every bill except one, and I hope to take care of that when I come to Victoria tomorrow for the luncheon."

The Tyees still have five games left. They play on Sunday in Sacramento against the Buccaneers, meet the San Jose Apaches here on Saturday, Nov. 4, and complete their scheduled home season on Saturday, Nov. 11, against the Buccaneers. They finish it out on the road — in Eugene against the Bombers on Nov. 19 and in Seattle against the Rangers on Dec. 2.

McKeta feels certain that his club, which has been working out steadily in Everett, can improve on its current 2-5 record and expects it to move up a notch in the standings on Sunday in Sacramento.

He disclosed that he has recently acquired two new players, both late cuts from National Football League clubs. They are Weldon Rutledge, a fullback from St. Louis Cardinals, and Ron Corbett, a defence tackle from Washington Redskins.

He will also have a second new fullback ready for the Buccaneers. Feeling that his club hasn't been getting the important short yardage, he will use linebacker Fred Forsberg as a ball-carrier when short-yardage situations come up.

GOOD SPIRIT

"There is a good spirit on the club and I'm sure we'll surprise a few more people before the season is over," McKeta declared.

One of the surprises already accomplished, that totally unexpected victory over the leading Orange County Ramblers at Royal Athletic Park on Oct. 14, could prove to be a bonus if the Tyees are operating next season.

McKeta said following the win over the Ramblers, Green Bay Packers had shown some interest in sending players to the Victoria club next season. He said he hoped to get some player help from Los Angeles Rams and/or Dallas Cowboys in another season.

But will there be another season?

"Yes," says McKeta. "I feel certain there will be. I believe I can get the financial support we need and, like I said, I believe that Victoria fans will support a good football operation."

Third Fight For Title

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP) — The third title fight between world middleweight boxing champion Emile Griffith of New York and Nino Benvenuti of Bologna, is expected to take place in New York next spring, the manager of the Italian boxer said Tuesday.

Benvenuti who stripped Griffith of the world crown last April, lost the second bout and the title Sept. 29.

UVic Plans Homecoming

It's Homecoming Day at the University of Victoria on Saturday, and students, alumni and, in some cases, the general public will take part in a series of events which range from "chariot" race through croquet, road races and rugby, soccer and basketball games.

The morning part of the program is confined to novelty events, starting at 10:30 with three road races over a 1.19 mile course around Ring Road which are open to anyone interested.

TIME EVENTS

At least two of them won't be won by the fastest runner. All are time events with the winners the entrants who can cross the finish line closest to but not under, set times of five, nine and 12 minutes.

A challenge croquet match between two teams from alumni faculty and students is scheduled to start at 10:45. For anyone who can't stand the excitement of that, there is the "chariot" race at 11. Just how it works is probably better left unexplained.

MORE SERIOUS

More serious competition, and most of it likely to be excellent, starts at noon with a rugby match between the UVic team and the alumni.

An hour later, the Vikings meet the alumni in a soccer match and the whole thing winds up in the evening with basketball games at 7 and 8:15.

The UVic Jayvees of the Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League meet the "Fat Five," a team made up of pre-1960 grads, in the first game. The second half of the twin bill; between the Vikings and the younger alumni, promises excellent, and combative, basketball.

Pink Protection

Melvin Peterson of Richfield, Utah, is dyeing Jennie, his old donkey, pink again this year. He uses her as a pack animal during Utah's deer season and doesn't want the animal shot. Mule deer have large ears just like its namesake. "I don't want old Jennie to end up on some deer hunter's table," Peterson said. (AP)

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Tofino hunters are keeping a watchful eye out for the arrival of the big Canada geese in that area.

Reuben Parker of the Maquinna Hotel at Tofino reports an abundance of ducks in the area, but few geese around. Hank Dawson of the Tofino Airport reported about 2,000 of the big honkers were flying the Tofino area inlets for the Oct. 8 opening, but after a couple of days of shooting they became pretty scarce.

A few of the local shooters have been bagging some in Grice Bay.

Nov. 11 weekend is the traditional time for hunters to converge on the Tofino area for the big Canada. Outlook to date is not too good, but that can change overnight if cold weather sets in up north and the big flocks start to migrate. If you find hunting not too good in the Tofino area turn your trip into a combination event and try fly fishing for the cutthroat in the Indian River, which empties into Grice Bay. But watch the mudflats when you try to get into the river. The tide goes out for a great distance and it is a muddy hike from the airport area to Indian River and if the tide comes in an impossible trip back.

You should go by boat, but you have to watch for the channel, which is along the northern shore of Grice Bay.

One year in November we hit into a trout-on-every-cast situation in this little stream.

Waterfowl shooting on the island has been generally pretty good this year. Kelsey Bay area has been giving up quite a number of limits of Canada and white-fronted geese.

Deer shooting should come out of its mid-October doldrums this weekend and this is the last weekend to shoot elk on Vancouver Island.

A few more than 25 elk have been shot this season, 15 of them on opening weekend. Most success has been obtained in the Schoen Lake, Camp 5, and Heber River areas of the lower north island. Four elk were shot at Nanaimo Lakes opening weekend.

Most productive spot for deer this season has been the Campbell River area with the Nimpkish-Gold River area producing most of the deer that have passed through that checkpoint.

Up until Thanksgiving weekend, with five weekends of hunting, the Campbell River checkpoint had recorded 915 hunters with 248 deer, for a 27 per cent success. On opening weekend the success was 40 per cent.

Cowichan Lake checkpoint recorded in the same period 1,285 hunters for 120 deer, 9.3 per cent success, compared with 9.8 last year. But because of early season logging area closures half the number of hunters were checked.

Nanaimo Lakes checkpoint recorded 1,316 hunters for 55 deer, 8.8 per cent success, compared with 8.2 success last year. Nanaimo River checkpoint recorded 442 hunters for 33 deer, 7.4 per cent success, compared with 9.4 per cent last year.

On opening weekend 333 hunters were checked at Northwest Bay with 25 deer, 7.5 per cent success, compared with 10.5 the same weekend last year.

In the Victoria area opening weekend, 377 hunters were checked for 36 deer, 9.5 per cent success.

Antlerless deer season opens Nov. 11 and continues until the season closes Dec. 3. Blue grouse season ends Dec. 3, but the ruffed grouse (willows) will be in season until the end of December.

Quail shooting is greatly improved this year.

Canadian Wildlife Service officials are expected to make a study of the Cowichan River area, especially the estuary regions, to see how much waterfowl habitat would be destroyed by a flood control proposal on the Cowichan River.

There is a growing feeling among those who have known the Cowichan River for years and years that efficient management and control of the B.C. Forest Products' weir at the head of the river and the outlet of Cowichan Lake could bring about sufficient flood control on the Cowichan River.

"Check when the weir went in and you will find out that since that day the gates first went down everything started going down. I could show you where pools and deep runs were for as long as I can remember," says Ted Oakman who spends about 42 weekends a year fishing the Cowichan River.

"But every year since the weir came about the river has changed. No river that keeps and holds its bank will flood unless some part of nature is touched," he says.

He says there should be a gradual runoff from the lake allowed before the heavy rains start. He suggests, as others have, that the Chemainus River could be used to provide some of the water for the Crofton pulp mill.

Second Win for Nixons

Victoria Nixons Trunkers chalked up their second successive victory in the Vancouver Island Junior Hockey League Sunday, whipping Esquimalt 7-2 at the Sports Centre.

Two goals by Jerry Ferrie and singles by Ernie Carley, Laurie Bennett, Ray Mounsey, Murray Southern and Doug Boyer wrecked Esquimalt, which got tallies from Graham Brown and Don Blyth.

Russia and Italy Dominate Diving

RCGA Plans Fall Through

MEXICO CITY (CP-AP)—Russia and Italy again dominated the diving events at the pre-Olympic Games Tuesday, winning gold medals in the 10-metre platform competition.

Russia's Galina Alexeeva easily took the women's platform title with a total of 111.37 points and Claudio DiBiasi of Italy scored 158.46 points to win the men's platform.

The Russians and Italians were gold medalists earlier this week in the springboard, Tamar Pajceva winning the women's gold while Franco Cagnotto took the men's title.

Miss Alexeeva beat a Japanese and an American in the women's platform. Keiko Otsuki earned the second-place silver medal, scoring a total of 103.06 points, while the third-place American, Patty Simms, had 101.46.

The golds were Russia's 24th of the Games and Italy's ninth. The two countries are leading in the medals column, but the Americans are expected to move up from their present fifth-place as the swimming events get under way today.

Canada's small team, with only a silver in yachting, is looking for its swimmers to harvest some of the huge medal bag that will come in the 29 swimming events. Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, B.C., the Pan-American Games gold medal winner in the 200-metre backstroke, heads the Canadian contingent. Others are Tom Arusoo of Montreal, Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls and Bill Mahony of New Westminster.

In the men's platform, American Keith Russell rallied with a rocketing twist on his 10th and final dive to pull into second place and the silver ahead of Japan's Jasuke Arimetz. Russell earned 24.65 points, the day's high, for his last dive and scored a total of 164.70 points. Arimetz had 163.71.

In one of the highest days of the two-week program that winds up Sunday, only a handful of finals were decided Tuesday.

In skeet shooting, Konrad Wirthner won West Germany's third gold medal of the Games with a score of 199.

'Gorilla with Long Legs'

Film Increases Sasquatch Lore

Color movie footage of a creature described as "like a gorilla with long legs" has been added to evidence about the sasquatch or bigfoot, long-legendary forest giant.

The film will be shown Thursday to a group of scientists at the University of British Columbia, it was reported Tuesday by anthropologist Don Abbott of the Provincial Museum here.

Only seven people have seen the film so far, apart from the man who took it Friday at Bluff Creek, in northern California — Roger Patterson of Yakima, Wash.

'NOT HUMAN'

One of these, weekly newspaper publisher John Green, described the film in an interview from his home at Harrison, B.C., Tuesday night.

"The best way to describe it is as a gorilla with long legs," he said. "It's definitely not human."

"It's forehead slopes back to a high ridge across the back of the head, but the lower part of the face is almost straight up and down — it doesn't have the great protruding mouth of a gorilla."

PROFILE SHOT

"It's neck is so short it appears to have no neck at all."

"The film includes a very brief profile shot, but most of it is of the thing walking away. Some of the film was shot while Patterson was running after it, but where he stopped, the picture is needle sharp."

"Single frames should enlarge very well."

Green conceded that the seven people who saw the film — including himself — were already believers in sasquatches. He and others have been collecting evidence for a decade or more.

LEADING SEEKER

"No movie would be convincing," he said. "We all know what can be done with movies. There has been convincing evidence for years, but no one looked at it. We all knew it was genuine before we saw it."

He said Patterson had been one of the leading seekers after sasquatches for about six years, and had compiled a book of writings from various sources on the subject.

Patterson is currently shooting a film about the search, and was engaged in this project at Bluff Creek when he came up with the footage in question.

HORSE IN PANIC

According to Patterson's account, the encounter took place at 1 p.m. Friday. He and a companion were on horseback, and his horse threw him in panic when it saw the strange creature.

The beast was a female, covered with short, glossy, dark fur, and appeared to be standing in the creek when first observed. Patterson gathered himself up and warily set up his camera, thinking the creature might attack. Green recounted, but it seemed indifferent to the men and horses and simply walked away.

Patterson ran after it, filming all the while and stopping at intervals to brace the camera and ensure some steady footage. He managed to get a total of less than a minute's film before the creature was gone, Green said.

LEGS OBSCURED

Green said the film was detailed enough to show that the hair lay in different directions above and below the elbows.

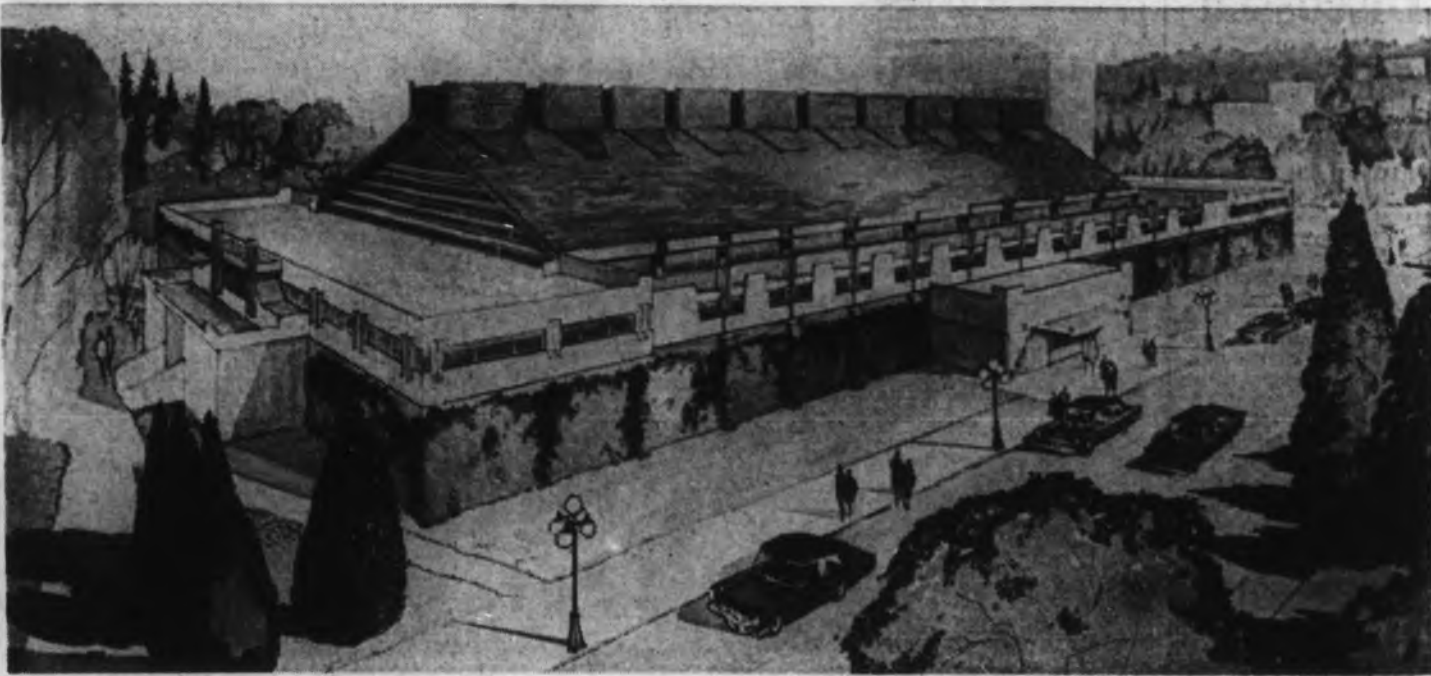

The creature's legs were somewhat obscured, Green said, but his impression was that they were straight, somewhat short, but well within human proportions.

It walked "deliberately," and upright, he said, with the top of the body slightly angled forward and the arms swinging loosely.

OFFICIAL ATTITUDE

The creature had large breasts covered with short hair, and prominent buttocks, Green said. The film showing Thursday will be attended by two members of the Provincial Museum staff, including Abbott, who only a few weeks ago went to California to make casts of huge footprints there.

The official attitude here to the prints was much like reaction to reports of the film: fantastic if true — either a giant discovery or a giant hoax, and about equally unbelievable either way.

One proposed plan for Crystal Garden renovation

Crystal in Poor Condition

Fast Action Needed to Save It—Report

By A. H. MURPHY

To build a brand new Crystal Garden would cost $750,000; to completely renovate the present facility, $568,000; to do minimal reconstruction and keep it viable, $350,000 and to do a five-year patch-up job, $150,000.

However, members of city council recreation and community services were agreed Monday after hearing a report on the recreation centre that something has to be done and fast.

'Poor Shape'

"This building is in very poor shape," said F. T. Gardiner, engineering consultant who co-ordinated and submitted a report on the structure — a report which has been six months in preparation.

Stanley P. Oakes, spokesman for A. B. Sanderson Co. Ltd., one of the firms which contributed to the report, said the roof of the building was in extremely poor condition.

It was so bad, he said, in the report and verbally to committee members that, with a snow load of a foot and a half, it would be dangerous and the building would have to be cleared.

Rusted Supports

Both Mr. Oakes and Mr. Gardiner said the steel roof supports were rusted and eroded, the woodwork supporting the glass panes rotted and many of the panes broken.

Taking the $568,000 figure ($508,000 plus $60,000 fees) as a starting point, Mayor Hugh Stephen tried to sort out just what was absolutely needed for "a first-class pool, modern change rooms, needed changes in plumbing and, of course, a new roof."

After a good deal of proposing, counter-proposing and consultation with the experts, the meeting came up with a figure of $302,000, exclusive of fees.

This would give a new roof, new change rooms, which were described as being "distasteful" now, an expenditure of $35,000 on the exterior and new pool filters, escape stairs, fire alarm system and general structural overhaul.

City Headache

It was generally agreed that in any renovation the ballrooms at each end of the present building would be a matter of complete unconcern, and would probably be eliminated.

"I never was happy about us being in the ballroom business," said Mayor Hugh Stephen. "It's been nothing but a headache for the city."

John H. Wade, of Wade,

Stockhill, Armour and Blewitt, architectural consultants, said a lot depended on just what the city's plans were with reference to a convention centre.

One Concept

When the mayor said he couldn't conceive of a convention centre being incorporated in a Crystal Garden renovation, the architect agreed that it could, at best, be a "half-baked, makeshift affair."

Mr. Wade produced an artist's sketch of a proposed rehabilitation plan for the garden. It was stressed that the drawing was only one concept of what could be done.

If a new pool was to be built, said Ald. Ian Stewart, he was not at all sure that it should be located on the Crystal site. Just because the area had some historic connotations did not mean that it was the best.

The Crystal Garden site was a very valuable piece of real estate, the alderman said. Its value might be used to build a pool elsewhere and closer to the city's population centres.

The consultants found little in the building that came up to standards required by the city's building codes, and Mr. Gardiner said that was why it would be unfair to do a patch-up job while requiring other Victorians to conform.

Cost Study

The foundation and walls were in reasonable condition and some of the recently installed ventilation and heating equipment was usable, but the swimming pool generally was in unsatisfactory condition, partly due to the fact that drains and filters were inadequate.

Committee chairman Ald. Hugh Ramsay said he would appoint a sub-committee to evaluate the report and costs, and bring back information to a further meeting.

Lineup Evidence Convicts Robber

After 3½ hours of deliberation, a B.C. Supreme Court jury Tuesday found Barry Allan Pearson, 26, guilty of robbing Mrs. Dorothy Low, manager of the Embassy Court motel, July 7.

In his summing up, defence counsel Brian Smith termed "grossly suggestive" the procedures used before the lineup in which Mrs. Low identified Pearson as the man she said threatened her with a knife and took $75 from the motel cash drawer.

Immediately after the robbery, he said, Mrs. Low failed to identify Pearson in photographs shown to her by police. POINTED OUT

Pearson did not appear in the first three line-ups, and Mrs. Low made no identification. However, twice she had pointed out men who she said bore a resemblance to the robber. The police had said these men did not resemble Pearson.

The night before the final lineup, detectives had asked her to identify coveralls and a hat of the type worn by the robber.

They had then shown Mrs. Low snapshots of Pearson, who she then said resembled the robber. They told her that if they picked him up there would be another lineup, and the following day she identified Pearson in a lineup.

"The conclusion is inevitable," he said, "that on July 13, she went to pick out the man she had seen in the photographs the previous night."

IT'S BETTER

In his charge to the jury, Chief Justice J. O. Wilson said, "It is better if before a lineup the witness hasn't been shown any photographs of the suspect."

"The fact that she identified the photographs beforehand may lead her to identify the same person in the lineup."

"It did happen here, but that doesn't mean you should reject the evidence of identification."

WITHOUT PHOTOS

He said Mrs. Low had said she would have picked the man out anyway, without the photographs.

The Crown case almost entirely depends upon Mrs. Low, and you can't convict unless you accept her evidence as correct," said Chief Justice Wilson.

Court was told Pearson had one previous conviction in 1961 for breaking and entering. He was remanded until this morning for sentence.

Sidney, North Saanich Merger

Freeman Suggests Longer Courtship

By GEORGE INGLE

The ratemakers of the northern Saanich Peninsula seem to favor a common-law relationship for Sidney and North Saanich, rather than the proposed "wedding" of the two communities, which will go to a referendum vote Nov. 4.

This emerged as the temper of the more than 500 people who filled the Saanich Hall in Sidney Tuesday to hear the representatives of the two communities on the controversial issue.

HAPPY EXISTENCE

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell drew the wedding analogy, and various speakers preferred to it, capped by amalgamation opponent Trevor Davis, a North Saanich councillor, who said, "Both communities should continue enjoying their happy, congenial common-law existence."

Coun. Davis, like other opponents of the merger, drew enthusiastic applause for his presentation. The elected representatives on the platform were split, 7-4 in favor of amalgamation.

SURPRISE VIEW

One of the surprises of the evening was Mayor Arthur Freeman, whom many had considered to be in favor of the union.

While he was not opposed to amalgamation in principle, he said, he was not in favor of amalgamation for Sidney, a "town with the lowest mill rate in B.C."

Carrying on the wedding analogy, he said, "We may not be able to get a divorce too easily... I suggest a longer courtship."

LINK SUPPORT

Ald. John Bosher was the only member of his council on Mayor Freeman's side — Ald. Norma Sealey, Hans Rasmussen and W. W. Gardner spoke out in favor of merging.

North Saanich Reeve J. B. Cumming, a proponent of amalgamation, had Couns. Nell North and D. R. Cook on his side, with Couns. Clifford Adams and Trevor Davis opposed.

URBAN PULL

In his opening remarks, Mr. Campbell said, "This is a classic example of an area which already has an urban pull, but also has a distinctly defined rural atmosphere."

He assured the voters that his department was not "shoving anything down anybody's throat," but trying to achieve three positive goals.

The first aim was to achieve effective units of local government, economically viable and politically representative; the second to give recognition to community services; the third to make sure "money flows from central government into vehicles of government best able to administer it," he said.

Amalgamation, he concluded, would "never come to a question of government decree — but it is inevitable."

NO BACKWATER

Reeve Cumming said, "We are no longer in a quiet little backwater, but are on a great highway between our two largest cities." He said the area is already involved in many regional functions, and will become involved in more — amalgamation or no.

Ian G. King, one of the authors of the Stevenson-Kellogg report on the feasibility of the merger, took umbrage to some of the remarks downgrading the report and accusing it of being biased and a "brainwashing idea."

"There has been some hint of bias in our report," he said. "This is entirely incorrect."

Shingle Mill

Demands Raised By Union

Negotiations between employees and management of the strikebound McOwen Shingle and Shake Ltd., 119 Songhees, broke down Monday because the union increased its demands at the meeting, a statement from the firm said Tuesday.

Company president W. K. McOwen was quoted by a Vancouver public relations firm as saying the union made "outrageous demands" in a meeting Monday when talks between the firm and union broke down.

Bruce Robertson of Vancouver, business agent for Local 200 of the union, has also been tied up in talks on the mainland and not available for comment.

The union originally wanted $3.05 and hour for primary splinters but increased to $3.25 Monday, it said.

"Similarly, the demand for sawyers was increased to 86 cents per square and $1.50 per hour from the original demand of 69 cents plus $1.04 per hour," the statement added.

The union also wanted a guaranteed minimum wage for sawyers of $33 per day. The industry guarantee is $28.54.

Canada's Parklands Discussed

President, Mrs. G. H. Love welcomed guests, Miss Mary Moran, Mrs. Tille Ritchie and former member Mrs. W. M. Howes to the recent meeting of the Arboretum Trustees Club. In keeping with the theme of the evening, "Canada's Parklands," tables were decorated with miniature woodland scenes and programs contained maps and pictures of the parks.

Topic mistress Mrs. H. L. Clarkson conducted a round table discussion on the theme and in her opening remarks informed the members that out of a total area of 3,851,809 square miles the federal government of Canada has reserved approximately 29,300 square miles of parks.

Toastmistress for the evening, Mrs. S. M. McCulloch introduced the following speakers: Mrs. Howes, Mrs. J. L. Brem, Mrs. L. H. Hammett and Mrs. C. M. Dowling.

Evaluators were Mrs. E. R. Ashbridge, Mrs. A. M. Reid, Mrs. G. L. Cook, Mrs. H. Winstone, and Mrs. W. A. Ludlow. Commenting on the meeting as a whole and making the awards was Mrs. D. E. Pile. The oscar was won by Mrs. Ludlow and the spur by Mrs. Brem.

Others taking part in the meeting were Mrs. J. A. Miller and Miss Juanita Davis.

Book Sales $1,400

Barton Actors' Committee treasure Mrs. Florence Pasmore turned over a cheque for $400 to Bastion Theatre — further proceeds from the sale of Theatre in the Kitchen cookbooks, 1,000 copies of which were published by Morris Printing as a donation to Bastion Theatre.

Padre Don Hatfield will officiate.

Gangster Styles Lead

LONDON (AP) — Gangster styles triumphed at the Associated Fashion Designers show here Monday.

But somebody got the wires crossed, and Princess Margaret, who should have seen the styles, was watching an Irish collection elsewhere.

Apart from the much-applauded gangster numbers, with flared back skirts to just below the knee, the general theme of the show for spring was a nostalgic harking to the 1930s.

Marborough decked out his models with submachine guns, two-toned lace-up oxfords, baggy jersey berets and black stockings. Although half the skirts were authentically long, the other half were mini.

The show is the big event of the London fashion season, and perhaps 1,500 buyers from Britain and abroad were here to see it.

Flowers for Bazaar

Grandmother's Gold Ring Something Old Talisman

A gold wedding ring belonging to her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Harry Wood, fulfilled the "something old" tradition for Sandra Margaret Gardner when she became the bride of Mr. Ralph Edward Merriman.

Tall baskets of pink and white gladioli decorated Oak Bay United Church for the wedding at which Dr. D. B. Sparling officiated. Mr. R. W. Kroeger, organist, played traditional wedding music.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. M. E. Gardner, 2553 Shakespeare Street, and the groom is the son of Mrs. George Lien, 139 Linden Avenue.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. H. J. Wood, the bride chose a floor-length gown styled with a Chantilly lace bodice, lily-point sleeves and empire waistline encircled with a matching bandeau. A full court train in lace fell from the shoulders and a rosette headpiece held the bride's four-tiered veil of silk illusion net. Pink and white gladioli.

Miss Carol Woolsey, maid of honor, and the Misses Diane and Lorraine Gardner, bridesmaids for their sister, were in floor-length gowns of aquamarine organza styled with empire bodices and angel sleeves and featuring sleeveless coats. They wore self-fabric flowers in their hair and carried gladioli in their bouquet. Mr. Steve Merriman was best

Const. and Mrs. Neville To Reside in Edmonton

A pretty wedding took place in Pakenham, Ont., when Bonnie Alice Russell, daughter of Mrs. Cora Russell of Pakenham, Ont., and the late Orswell Russell, became the bride of Constable Wm. Lloyd Neville, RCMP, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. V. Neville, 2961 Larkdowne Road, Victoria. Rev. Harold Davies officiated at the double ring ceremony held in St. Andrew's United Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Peter Russell.

Her A-line gown was of white peau de soie, with white lace applique in the front and trimming the train. Her veil fell gracefully to her shoulders, and she carried a bouquet of white baby chrysanthemums.

Maid of honor was Mrs. Wayne Nield of Sittsville, Ont., and bridesmaids were Miss Elaine Savage, of Ottawa, and bridesmaids were Miss Lois Simpson of Ottawa, and Miss Linda Neville of Victoria, sister of the groom.

Their gowns were of forest green peau de soie, with matching hair bows and their bouquets were of bronze and gold baby chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Allan Wilson, organist, accompanied Miss Heather Lee Forsyth, soloist.

Ushers were Mr. Allan Barratt of Ottawa, Mr. Fraser Ross of Kitchener, and Mr. Paul Daniels of Pakenham.

After the ceremony, 100 guests attended the reception held in the church dining room. Mr. Ralph McKenzie proposed the toast, Mr. Douglas Russell who was best man, read telegrams of congratulation. After a honeymoon to Montreal and Niagara Falls, the young couple will make their home in Edmonton, Alta.

Case Loads Increase For VON

Case loads of the Victorian Order of Nurses is increasing monthly.

This fact was brought out when VON director, Miss Elizabeth Riddell, gave her report at a meeting of the board in the library of the Health and Welfare Building. Figures showed an increase of 197 new patients in September and a total of 1,997 visits made by VON nurses.

It was announced that Miss Betty Short was again giving health counselling sessions at the Silver Threads Centre.

Board members were told that Mrs. L. Craigmyre, a director of student personnel services at St. Joseph's Hospital, had been impressed by the work she had seen done while making home visits with VON staffers. These visits had been made in order to help set up public health observation periods for student nurses.

J. B. Barnum presided at the meeting, minutes were read by honorary secretary, Mrs. G. A. Jones, and D. Green gave a financial report. J. C. Cox reported that two of the VON cars were due to be replaced and tenders were out to several firms.

At the close of the meeting, there was a showing of color slides that illustrated VON work, particularly in the field of rehabilitation.

Deighton-Lendrum

Bride Wears Heirloom Gold Necklace

An heirloom gold and pearl necklace belonging to her mother was worn by Karen Elizabeth Lendrum when she was married to Mr. John Raymond Deighton recently in St. John's Church.

Canon A. G. Baker performed the evening ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. Lendrum, 247 Government Street and the late Mr. Charles Edward Lendrum and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Deighton of Oliver, B.C. The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John Lendrum, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white tulle over taffeta, styled with lily point sleeves and portrait neckline. The waistline of the fitted bodice was encircled with bands of heavy lace and the full train also had the bands of lace. Her veil was cathedral length and her bouquet a starburst of yellow roses with stephanotis.

Miss Trera Lewis was maid of honor and Mrs. R. S. Harrison was bridesmatron for her sister. They wore full-length gowns of peacock green peau de soie, styled with portrait necklines. Their pill box headpieces were in pale yellow and yellow chrysanthemum pompons were suspended from the wrist.

Mr. Alec McLennan of Penikese was best man and showing guests to pews were Mr. Bruce Preston and Mr. Gary McLeod of Vancouver.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Twin silver candelabra flanked the two-tiered wedding cake and an antique bisque vase filled with yellow roses. This vase had been used on her grandmother's (Mrs. John Worthington) wedding cake. The bride's going away costume was a green A-line dress, chocolate brown topcoat and heavy net whimsy with green trim.

Printed SURAHs, DACRONS, Sheers and Sparkle ORGANZA, Crease-Resistant DALERINA

Suitable for after 5 and evening dresses.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: What is the responsibility of a host and hostess to guests who drink too much and then drive home?

It is not possible to monitor the alcoholic intake of guests to make sure they don't get plowed. Furthermore, it is next to impossible to get a drunk to admit he is in no shape to drive. I have seen drunks become belligerent and nasty when someone questions their ability to handle the wheel.

My husband and I had a party at our home recently and the last four couples to leave were so stored they couldn't see straight. When they left (in two cars) I told my husband I was scared to death that they would end up in the morgue. He said, "They'll be O.K. Don't worry."

It so happened they made it all right, but if they had NOT made it, how much of the guilt would have been on our heads? Please tell us, Ann Landers, what is the solution to this ever-growing social problem? — A PARTY TO THE MURDER?

Dear Party: If those drunks had NOT made it home, or worse yet, if they had rammed into some innocent people, you would, in my opinion, be guilty of plenty.

One thing a host and hostess can do to prevent such tragedies is to cut the liquor off and send people home before they get so cackled they are a menace to society. Don't tell me it can't be done because I have done it in my home and I will continue to do it — and anyone who doesn't like my brand of hospitality doesn't have to come back.

Guests who become suddenly drunk should be driven home by a sober guest, or sent home in a taxi. Anyone who knowingly allows a drunk to drive himself anywhere must share in the blame for whatever happens.

Bride-Elect Honored

Bride-elect Miss Shaaron Robbins was guest of honor at a surprise miscellaneous shower given by Miss Fawn Passmore, who will be one of her bridal attendants. Miss Passmore's mother, Mrs. B. Passmore, was co-hostess at the shower held in their Claremont Avenue home.

Miss Robbins whose marriage to Mr. Barrie Pearce takes place on Friday, Nov. 10, was presented with a corsage of yellow rosebuds. Corsages were also presented to the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. J. M. Robbins, and groom-elect's mother and grandmother, Mrs. R. D. Pearce and Mrs. E. Isbister.

Other guests were Mrs. R. Fort, Mrs. F. Boak, Mrs. J. Shaw, Mrs. R. Gaetz, Mrs. L. McMicking, Mrs. R. Passmore, Mrs. W. Passmore, Mrs. V. Griffin, Mrs. R. Hood, Mrs. R. Dorothy Gaetz, Susan Robbins, Churcher, Mrs. J. Leeming, Mrs. M. Hunt and the Misses Sandra Boak, Dianne Boak, spokesmen for the developers Sandra Lloyd, Cathy Churcher and Heather Hunt.

Complexion Beauty

The secret of beautifying the complexion is said to lie in the saturation of the skin with a new type of tropical moist oil. The skin takes on an immediate healthy bloom as the tiny lines and blemishes are gently smoothed away. This saturation treatment with the moist oil of Olaf is recommended by skin care consultants, who advise its daily use as a powder base to give the complexion day-long beauty. Your druggist will help you to obtain a supply for your personal needs.

Dear Ann Landers: I used to hate it when you handed out advice against going steady. I thought you were a square old bag and I even wrote once to blast you. Well, I am writing again — this time to apologize.

I am a 15-year-old girl who just broke up with a boy 17. We started to go steady last January. I was in heaven for about five weeks, and then I began to worry because we seemed to go a little further every time we got together. One day I asked what he would do if I got pregnant. He said, "Any girl who is dumb enough to get pregnant in this day and age deserves to figure a way out by herself."

That statement really shook me up. I told him he was absolutely right and I wasn't going to wait until I got into that fix because we were parting company then and there.

That was three months ago and I've never been so happy in my life. What a rockhead I was to think I needed a steady for social security. I have plenty of dates and I'm having a ball. My mother and I get along better, too. We used to argue a lot because she didn't approve of my going steady either.

I'd like to tell all teen-agers who think going steady is boss that they are kidding themselves.—BEEN THERE

Dear Been: Thanks for another testimonial. Your lesson was relatively inexpensive. Most of the teen-agers who write as you did had to pay a high price for their education.

PREPARING to blow out candles on 10th anniversary cake before Education Minister Leslie Peterson cut into it are Mrs. Nina Clarke, Fred Blake, Peterson and George Gray, Goodwill's president.—(Kinsman)

B.C. Gives $15,000 To Aid Handicapped

Education Minister Leslie Peterson presented a $15,000 B.C. government cheque Tuesday to Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped.

The presentation was made at a reception marking the opening of Goodwill's 10th anniversary drive for unwanted clothing and other household articles.

Among those attending the function, at Goodwill's Rehabilitation Centre on Bay Street, were founding members Mrs. Nina Clark and Fred Blake, and president George Gray.

The handicapped employees of Goodwill Enterprises have set a magnificent example to the whole community by their own 58.7 per cent response to the current Red Cross-Red Feather United Appeal, Mr. Peterson said.

McRae Huddle Set

A Saanich committee is meeting with the McRae family in an effort to come to agreement on the purchase of the family estate for park and recreational use, Reeve Hugh Curtis said Tuesday night.

"We're seeking a settlement for virtually the whole property," the reeve said. "We're anxious to conclude negotiations one way or the other. Meetings have been going on and others are planned."

Council last week decided to try the direct approach to the family, which consists of brothers George and Jack and sisters Kate McRae and Mrs. Margaret Macle.

Saanich agreed early this month to offer the family $300,000 for the 132-acre property in southern Saanich, $300,000 less than an arbitration board award of last month. The board also awarded the McRaes interest on their evaluated price, which comes to well over $72,000 and is climbing at the rate of $300 a day.

Mayor Hugh Stephen, Tuesday amplified his defense of the city against recent charges that it is stingy in its grants to cultural organizations.

He reminded city council recreation committee, that every person who attended a performance in the McRae Playhouse was subsidised by the city to the extent of 33 cents.

"I don't think this is generally realized," said the mayor. The same goes for Crystal Garden and Memorial Arena, 10 cents in the case of the Crystal and seven cents at the Arena.

So, added the mayor, over-all the city was subsidizing attendance at the average rate of 11 cents per patron.

Great-Grandson Born

Best Present Ever, Says Centenarian

"The best birthday present ever" was the birth of a great-grandson to Mrs. Alice Grimes on her 101st birthday Tuesday.

"That's what mother said when we told her," Mrs. Deloy Batchelor said. Mrs. Grimes lives with the Albert Batchelors at 3217 Maplewood.

The baby who appeared at 3 a.m. Tuesday, at Royal Jubilee Hospital, is the son of Philip and Joyce Wade of 1230 Maywood. Mrs. Wade is the daughter of Mrs. May Wright, 1236 Montrose, who is Mrs. Grimes' daughter.

The baby's father said his firstborn would be named Gordon Philip.

Mrs. Grimes was busy Sunday and Tuesday welcoming family and friends who dropped in with birthday wishes.

Canvassers Miss Some Apartments

Some apartment dwellers in Victoria are not being reached by canvassers of the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal, the residential chairman said Tuesday.

Mrs. Shirley Baker said the owners or caretakers of some large apartments in the city are not allowing the canvassers in. "We feel that some of the tenants are not aware of this," she said, "and may possibly be waiting for someone to call to pick up their donation."

Mrs. Baker reiterated her appeal for these, and any other citizens who are missed by canvassers, to mail or take their donations to the Community Chest, 1961 Cook.

At 5 p.m. Tuesday the residential campaign had collected $20,741 of its $108,200 goal. This included $1,270 from Sidney and North Saanich and $400 from Central Saanich.

The total for all divisions stood at $304,983 which is 50.8 per cent of the $600,000 goal.

'Outright Attack'

LABOR BLISTERS Bennett Plea

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett's call for wage and price controls "is an outright attack on collective bargaining," the British Columbia Federation of Labor said Tuesday.

Bennett sent a telegram to Prime Minister Pearson on Monday stating that B.C. would support any federal controls to curb inflation.

The federation said in a press release that its convention has called for labor unions throughout the province to oppose Mr. Bennett's "attack upon the process of collective bargaining."

The federation said the premier is "obviously attempting to build up a straw man around the inflationary issue" and his plans are "further indication of the failure of his own government to meet its responsibilities."

"As far as living costs are concerned it is significant that a major component in increased costs is housing, which represents about one-third of the consumer dollar yet the provincial government has done nothing to curb the land speculation which has contributed so greatly to the rise in housing costs."

The federation said the premier is engaging in "scare propaganda."

Exchanges of views between federal and provincial health authorities would be increased and possibly a conference would be called to consider the proposed legislation.

Liberals Win Twice

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal government downed two non-confidence votes on its resources and pollution policies Tuesday night by votes of 104 to 94 and 105 to 93.

The Liberals drew solo support on one vote from Independent J. A. Mongrain (Trois-Rivieres) as they faced a combined opposition. On the second, Mr. Mongrain was joined by A. B. Patterson (SC-Fraser Valley).

The initial vote came on an NDP motion calling for the government to initiate a pollution-control policy. It went down 103 to 93.

SAME SPREAD

The same 10-vote spread resulted from the roll-call vote on a Conservative motion demanding that the government enunciate a natural resources policy.

The vote on the NDP motion saw 71 Conservatives combine with 17 NDP members and five Creditists, against 102 Liberals and Mr. Mongrain.

On the Conservative motion, it was 72 Conservatives, 17 NDP and five Creditists, against 102 Liberals. Mr. Mongrain and Mr. Patterson.

DELAY SCORED

The votes came late on the second of two days spent debating a supply motion. Opposition members accused the government of not getting cracking in the resource and pollution fields.

This prompted a reply from Health Minister MacEachen Tuesday that his department is laying the groundwork for a national clean air act, which along with the proposed new water act will do much to solve Canada's pollution problems.

MacEachen listed these possible components of the clean air act:

- Establishment of air-quality criteria and emission standards on a uniform national basis, coupled with a monitoring system;
- A uniform approach to motor-vehicle pollution;
- Provision of technical assistance to the provinces from a special federal team, presumably within the health department;
- A study of the effect on humans and life generally of pollution;
- A study of pollution emanating from federal property and the controls required to eliminate it.

FEDERAL AID

The minister said he thought there may be a place for federal financial assistance to universities and provinces to carry out pollution research.

Asked by NDP Leader Doug Young whether he envisaged legislation on pollution proposing remedies "purely on a voluntary basis," MacEachen said he thought it unwise to proceed initially with Criminal Code amendments.

Exchanges of views between federal and provincial health authorities would be increased and possibly a conference would be called to consider the proposed legislation.

LABOR RAPS POLLUTION

BEAUTY TURNS TO NAUSEA

VANCOUVER (CP)—A committee of the B.C. Federation of Labor said Tuesday that the signs and smells of the province will be enough to "turn your stomach" unless park industry is curbed.

"It gains us little if in a drive for shorter hours, longer vacations and more prosperity we end up with no place to go to rest and relax with our families because pollution has won the day," the federation's natural resources committee said in its report to the group's annual convention.

"We had better wake up and start raising good old fashioned hell or face a Beautiful B.C. the sight and smell of which would turn your stomach."

The committee called for limiting and logging in provincial parks to be banned, mass reforestation and a halt on releasing wastes into lakes, streams and rivers.

The committee also said leasing of land to other than Canadian citizens should be halted because the provincial government is currently aiding "greedy entrepreneurs" to grab everything they can.

It also criticized provincial government policy of allowing export of unfinished products to foreign countries.

Old Theory Shattered

By M. V. CHESNUT

It is a funny thing how we gardeners get into a rut in our thinking and string along for years with certain preconceived ideas which may have no basis in fact.

For instance, in the feeding of fruit trees it has always been the conventional thing to apply fertilizer in early spring, on the theory that this is the time when the trees can make the most effective use of the nutrients. Now, a research station in the United States has come up with the unusual suggestion that for nitrogenous feeding anyway, early fall is a much better time.

According to our older theories, it has always been felt that to feed nitrogen in late summer or fall would stimulate the tree into soft, sappy growth which would be highly vulnerable to winter frost injury.

The American researcher is aware of this view, yet he is convinced that the theory is wrong, and that trees fed with nitrogen in late summer or fall are actually more resistant to winter damage than spring-fed trees. The research station has a large body of experimental data to back up its statements, and while the theory hasn't been worked out in detail yet, the approach is along these lines:

By August, a tree has finished making its new growth for the year, and from then until late fall, its job is to store away sufficient food in its tissues—particularly nitrogen—to get it off to a good start in the spring. If it fails to store enough nitrogen, it will have great difficulty in taking in any from outside sources until the soil warms up to 60 degrees—and that certainly will not be in early spring.

In other words, the tree gets off to a bad start, and will probably never catch up in growth with one which has stored away an ample supply of nutrients. Moreover, the well-fed tree is in better shape to stand up under the rigors of winter than a starved one.

Nor is that all. A curious and worthwhile by-product appears to be developing from the fall feeding of fruit trees. At the world-renowned East Malling Research Station in Britain, word comes that the scab disease of apples can be prevented or reduced to a remarkable extent simply by spraying the trees with a nitrogenous fertilizer after the crop has been harvested but before the leaves fall.

Scab has always been a most annoying disease of apples, pitting the skin of the fruit with ugly black scabs, and up to now, the only defence we have had was to spray the trees fairly frequently with powerful fungicides, many of them poisonous compounds. The British research station found that a five per cent spray of urea fertilizer applied in the fall did just as good a job as the toxic fungicides.

At first glance, this didn't make sense; you don't ordinarily treat fungus diseases by feeding the patient. When the reason for the striking reduction in scabby apples was investigated further, a discovery was made which may have far-reaching effects.

It was found that the fertilizer does not kill the disease spores directly. Instead, it encourages the production of bacteria on the leaves up to ten times the normal population; moreover, the nutrient spray increases the type of bacteria which are antagonistic to the scab fungus.

Micro-slides showed how the bacteria attacks the fungus. Actually, this is a similar process to that observed by Fleming when he discovered penicillin, except that in his case the fungus destroyed the bacteria.

The back-room boys at East Malling are not the type to go off half-cocked, and they warn that their information is still incomplete and they are not yet ready to make specific recommendations. The beauty of the fall fertilizer spray, though, is that it can't possibly do any harm, while its potential for good is enormous.

ARTHUR HOPPE (and Reagan) Figure It Out

LBJ Keeps Victory Dark

WASHINGTON—The White House has flatly denied Governor Ronald Reagan's charge that the U.S. is actually winning the war in Vietnam and President Johnson is cleverly keeping it a secret.

Reagan said he figures Johnson is holding out and will let us have the good news when it's "politically advantageous for him to do so."

George Christian, the president's press secretary, was obviously caught by surprise by this charge and said he didn't know what to say, except it wasn't true, which is a pretty weak defence.

In reality, however, Reagan is very close to the truth. The truth is that the U.S. won the war six months ago.

To understand why President Johnson has kept this a secret you have to understand what kind of man he is—humble and straightforward with an abiding abhorrence of adulation.

You can imagine the dilemma this placed him in when he received the news last April that the war was over—the U.S. having killed, by actual body count, every single enemy soldier in Vietnam, many of them several times.

"Great balls of fire," said the President to Mrs. Johnson, "What am I going to do now?"

"Well, dear, why don't you just tell people you've finally won the war?"

"What? And have the whole country start celebrating? Why folks would be shaking my hand and shouting my name. I'd never have another moment's peace and quiet. You know I never could abide that kind of thing."

"It's your only failing, dear, but . . ."

"But, nothing. And think of my dear old friends over in Congress—the ones who keep returning my letters marked, 'Sender Unknown.' They'd be calling up night and day to ask if there's anything they could do for me. One thing I can't stand is a grown man fawning over me."

"You simply must overcome this weakness, dear."

"Oh, I try, I try. But worst of all I'd soar upward in the public opinion polls and there'd be no way on God's green earth to keep a grateful nation from re-electing me to this awful job for another four years."

"How I wish you could be vice-president again, dear. Those were your happiest years."

"There's no hope of that if this gets out. Nope, the only chance is to keep it a secret and pray the party will nominate that fine young man I have long admired and quietly helped every chance I got—that boy I think of as a son, Bobby Kennedy."

"Yes, dear, but I just wish the world knew what a shy, humble, self-sacrificing man you are."

"Good Lord, Bird, don't tell. It would ruin everything!"

Up to now, Johnson's secret plan has been succeeding admirably. Beyond his wildest dreams, even. But now that Reagan, with brilliant political sagacity, has stumbled so close to the truth, Johnson may no longer be able to keep the best-kept secret of his Administration.

I am referring, of course, to what a shy, humble and straightforward man he is.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Love Without Strings

LONDON (NANA) — Juliet Prowse and Sweet Charity have generated the most excitement in the West End of London since My Fair Lady came from the States to sweep the British into a state of ecstasy. Juliet and her Romeo, Ed Ganser, who re-staged the Bob Fosse Charity choreography for London, will be married very soon. "Will you ask her to give up her career?" I asked Ed. "Never," he replied. "Never," Juliet echoed, adding, "I could never give up my work." It wasn't too long ago that Frank Sinatra said he would marry Miss Prowse, on condition that she retire from show-business. She wouldn't, and so he wouldn't. My, how things have changed for Prowse . . . And was it printed at the time, that Sinatra asked $1,000,000 on Miss Prowse shortly before they married? No matter what happens, Mia will always be rich.

Arthur Miller's son Robert had an important job in the Joe Levine film, The Producers. He was the last cast and crew dispatched to bring in the coffee at break-time.

Jane Fonda rented a DC-4 for a day to fly her mountains of furniture from the villa in Rome to the farmhouse near Paris, where Jane is hoping it will soon be joined by the most chic baby in the world, with a Vadim surname. All this and her unusual furniture, which includes a bed in the form of a reclining woman, and a table and chair set in the shape of female nudes.

Chitty Chitty Bang Bang has buzzed off to Bavaria for some mountainous backgrounds with Dick Van Dyke and Sally Ann Howes. I must catch up with Dick to find out if he is really playing the late President Kennedy in the film version of the Pierre Balmain best seller. There have been some denials.

Nice to have a woman playing a woman in a London Shakespeare production. Boys playing girls are all the rage in the theatre here. Even Sir Alec Guinness is a woman for most of his current play. But very female Maggie Smith returns to the National Theatre Company at the end of this month to portray Beatrice in Much Ado About Nothing — her first job of acting since she married actor Robert Stephens and gave birth to a baby boy. Next year, Miss Smith will star in the movie of The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie, for 20th Century-Fox. I hope they make the picture in Scotland, which is the locale for the Muriel Spark novels.

JACK SMITH Crusade Gains Ground

Buckingham Palace Replies

For the first time ever, one of my modest crusades seems to be gaining support. As the original man from U.N.C.L.E. (Unlimited Natives in Causes Lost and Ephemeral), I have never succeeded before.

But protest is the mood of the day. And I offer a protest so remote, and so unlikely to backfire, and so nonviolent, that anybody can play.

and again. An air base would destroy it. I urged any readers who shared my views, and Darwin's, to write Queen Elizabeth.

Well, we have had some action. A woman named M. Virginia Means, of Pasadena, not only wrote the Queen, but got an answer, on Buckingham Palace stationery.

"We have too little of these natural reservations left in our third, anxious, war-torn world to put with this beautiful if isolated paradise," Miss Means wrote. "With Mr. Smith we feel that humanity could better be served by preservation of this precious coral reserve."

"From your sister nation here, we Americans write to ask you to consider a different location for your proposed air base, and to spare this island of Aldabra in the Indian Ocean, in all its native beauty, that it may be a gift to life, and to the future."

Six friends signed the letter along with Miss Means. An answer came forthwith: Buckingham Palace.

"The defence services secretary is commanded by Her Majesty the Queen to acknowledge the receipt of Miss M. V. Means' letter and to state that it has been transmitted to the Ministry of Defence.

11th October, 1967."

I don't know how the Queen handles her correspondence, but if life in Buckingham Palace is anything like life at our house, I can imagine the conversation.

"Anything in the mail, Philip?"

"Not much. Something from de Gaulle. A letter from Pasadena."

"Pasadena? Do we know anyone there?"

"It's from an M. V. Means."

"Means? Quigley-Means?"

"No. Just plain Means. Some American, I expect."

"Well, open it, luv."

"It's a ruddy protest. About the air base on Aldabra. They don't want us to build it. Scare off the birds, they're afraid."

"Just why are we building an air base on Aldabra?"

"Because the Americans want it, pet. They're paying for it, I imagine."

"Well, what must I do — about the letter?"

"Command somebody to answer it, I suppose."

"Oh, blast! You know how I hate to command anyone. It's so — Victorian! Take care of it, Philip, will you? There's a luv. I'm off to Kew. They're naming a rose after Armstrong-Jones."

So there's hope. I doubt if we can save the Himalayan snow leopard from the American fur trade. But we may yet save Aldabra for the frigate bird, the sacred ibis, the fruit-eating bat and the red-footed booby.

And God Save the Queen.

Moon Just Right

Girls Did the Pinching
But Men Did the Rest

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — Police arrested 22 men Monday night on charges of soliciting prostitutes. The ladies solicited were actually policewomen.

"That's the most men we've ever arrested in one night," a spokesman for the police vice squad said. "But the moon was just right ... it was a perfect night for the arrests."

Authorities said among those charged were the assistant manager of a local bank, at least one owner of a prominent local company "and the normal everyday men looking for sex."

Police charged 22 men with soliciting for an immoral act. One other man was charged with disorderly molesting.

"We just put two police-women on street corners and the men did the rest," the police spokesman said.

"Most of the men waved or called from their cars and the girls walked over. Like regular prostitutes, the police-women waited for the men to say they wanted an immoral sex act."

"All our girls do in cases like this is answer the man's questions. But once an actual solicitation is made and a price mentioned, the arrest is made."

Murder Rumors Discounted

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (UPI) — Police and employers of school trustee and laboratory technician Leo Held, 39, Tuesday discounted rumors of a murder rampage Monday because of either a car-pool argument or anger at being passed over for promotion.

Held was in critical condition in hospital after four police bullets ended a day in which six people were slain and six others wounded. Four of the six also were in critical condition.

Police said Held was "rambling" unintelligible words in his hospital bed.

They said members of the carpool denied the argument theory and the company said no promotion was in the offing for anyone. The Hammermill Paper Co. plant was closed by officials for the day.

One investigator said the answer to the bloody rampage was locked "somewhere in the mind" of the six-death suspect.

Board Invited
To Hear
Youth Aims

Greater Victoria school board members have been invited to a meeting tonight in the Paul Building on Foul Bay Road to hear the Victoria Youth Council proposal that students have a say in how schools are operated.

Council member Charles Berner said Tuesday his group will ask for voting representation or at least recognition as an advisory body, but "our most immediate hope is just that we will be listened to."

School board chairman Peter Bunn said he feels "we should not close the door to them ... we owe them a hearing."

Mayor Stephen last week called the council "juvenile" for "gross discourtesy" in its efforts to gain representation on city council. He spoke when the youth group released its demands in a brief before consulting alderman.

Of the school issue, Mr. Barber said: "One way students may be included in democracy is by setting up an advisory board to sit in on (school) board meetings and make recommendations."

"Another way is by changing the Municipal Act to include us as voting members on the board. But I can see this won't happen overnight."

Mr. Bunn said he has not called a board meeting, but has sent a memo to all trustees inviting them if they are interested.

At Simon Fraser

New Union Claims
Faculty Support

BURNABY (CP) — A spokesman for the newly-formed Simon Fraser Teachers' Union said Monday the union has enrolled more than 150 of SFU's 350-member teaching staff.

Dale Sullivan, an assistant professor of English, said more teachers are joining daily since the resignation last week of the executive of the Simon Fraser Faculty Association, which also represents teachers.

Union officials claimed the faculty association had proved ineffectual in dealing with the "hierarchical and authoritarian" administrative structure. They said the new body may seek certification as a labor union.

Dr. William Vidaver, the resigned president of the faculty association, denied the mass resignation was due directly to lack of communication with the administration.

He said the faculty association had obtained a hearing from president Patrick McTaggart-Cowan every time it had asked for one, but didn't get very good results.

INUWIK, N.W.T. (CP) — Rolf Storhaug, 20, of Oslo, Norway, one of three airmen rescued after a nine-day arctic vigil beside a downed aircraft, was released from hospital here Tuesday and returned to Fairbanks, Alaska, the starting point of their abortive flight to Europe. But two of his companions, Einar Pedersen, 48, chief navigator for the Scandinavian Airlines System, and Thor Tjonveit, 30, of Fairbanks, the pilot of the twin-engine Piper Aztec, remained in hospital after injuries received when failure of both engines forced their plane down in the Blow River Valley, 90 miles southwest of this Arctic town 1,200 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The men were hoping to chart a Polar route of short hops by light aircraft from Alaska to Norway when failure of both engines forced their craft down Oct. 14. They were rescued Monday.

The trio set up a tent near the wreckage of their plane and huddled together through the first night, using two camp stoves for warmth.

For three days they remained at the tent while the temperature dropped, the wind increased and snow fell. The coldest temperature they recorded was 10 below zero.

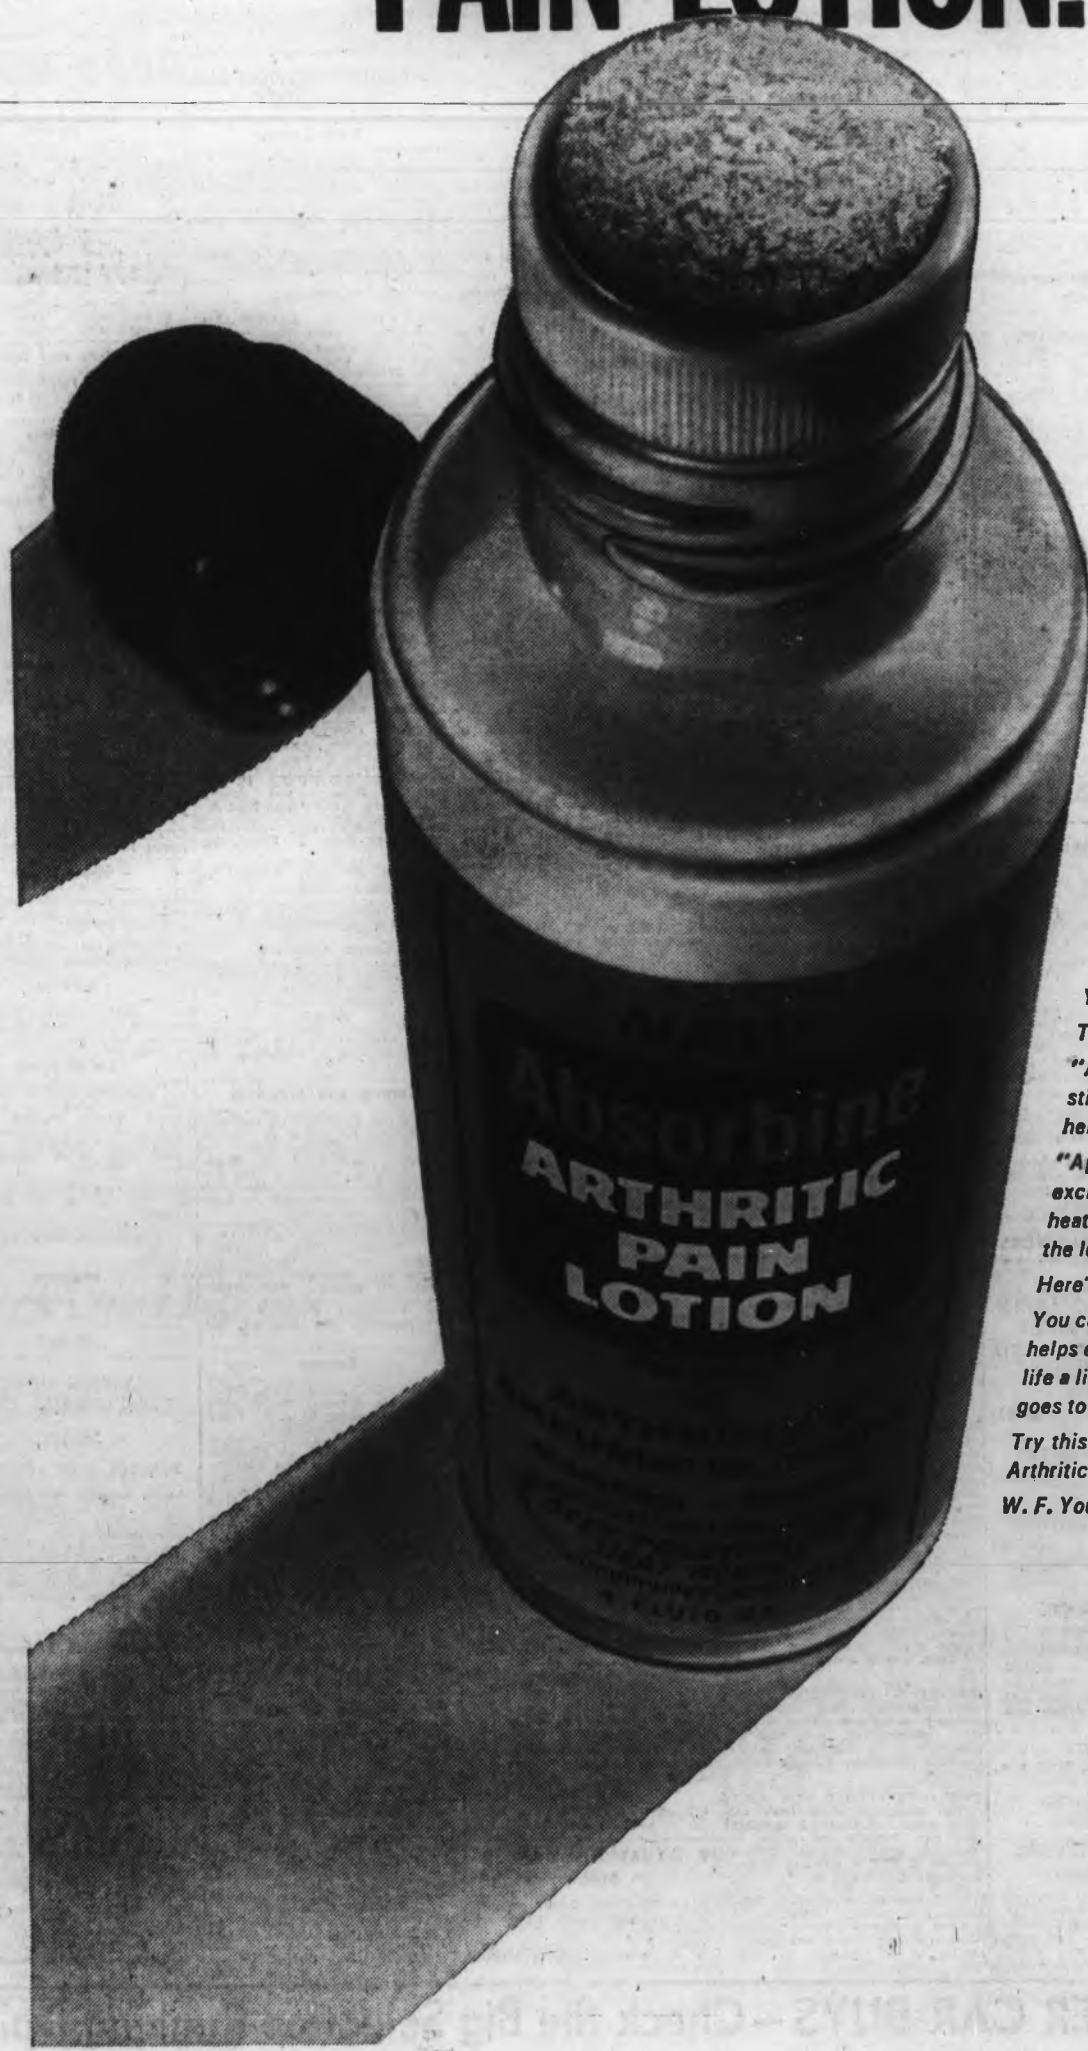

On the fourth day they decided survival depended on moving to a less exposed position. They dragged their gear about 300 yards away into a protected foothill area and built a lean-to of spruce branches.

For food they ate survival rations of which they had a 14-day supply.

On Saturday, their eighth day of survival, they heard a plane which passed about 10 miles away.

But the men were not located until Sunday when a Fairchild F27 belonging to Wein Air Alaska, the company for which Mr. Tjonveit works as a co-pilot, spotted the wreckage while on a regularly scheduled flight.

The early Arctic darkness prevented their rescue until Monday.

Smith

Youth, 19 Guilty In Deaths

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—A county superior court jury Tuesday found Robert Benjamin Smith, 19, guilty of five counts of first-degree murder and two counts of assault with intent to commit murder. The jury deliberated less than two hours before returning the verdict, which carries the death penalty. Smith was arrested Nov. 12, 1966, in Mesa, Ariz., after four women and a child were killed and two other persons wounded at the Rose-Mar beauty college.

Remembrance Day

B.C. Teachers Fight For Extra Holiday

VANCOUVER (CP)—Teachers in British Columbia will continue their fight for a holiday in lieu of Remembrance Day despite a government announcement that they don't get an extra day off. Remembrance Day is on a Saturday this year. Bob Buzza, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, said Monday the teachers still don't have an answer to their Oct. 6 request for a day in lieu of Nov. 11 and haven't been told officially of the Victoria decision. Under the Holidays Act, the federation said, teachers should be given a holiday. But Education Minister Peterson said Monday the school calendar set by the cabinet makes no provision for the holiday since it falls on a Saturday. Both the University of British Columbia and Simon Fraser University will be closed Nov. 10.

Unemployment Act Changes Probed

OTTAWA (CP)—Teachers will not have to contribute to unemployment insurance under changes in the act expected this session, Labor Minister Nicholson told the Commons Tuesday. Teachers would be "pretty far down the list" in the "trend towards universality" that the changes will bring, the minister said. In reply to the specific question of whether teachers would be brought under the act, he said, "the answer is no." Michael Starr, interim Conservative leader, started the exchange by saying there is widespread speculation about changes in the act. He also asked when a bill containing revisions would be brought into the Commons. Nicholson said the changes are still being studied. He also said "no extension of coverage is contemplated" in the revisions to be brought in this session.

Top-Level Meeting Will Ponder Dosco

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal and Nova Scotia governments will hold a top-level meeting here Friday to seek an end to the crisis situation over the planned shutdown of the Sydney, N.S. steel plant. Premier G. I. Smith will head the Nova Scotia delegation at the meeting with the federal cabinet which will include Prime Minister Pearson. The session starts at 9:30 a.m. EDT. Both governments agreed at a hastily called meeting in Sydney last week to hold a higher-level discussion later. The Friday date was chosen Tuesday. The choice gave Nova Scotia officials time to hold a series of meetings with officials of Dominion Steel and Coal Corp., which threw the province into a flap in the first place by announcing it planned to close the big steel operation by April 30 next year. At the Friday meeting, the Nova Scotia delegation is expected to present more facts and figures on the Cape Breton steel industry than they had at the Sydney meeting.

Expo Debt Eased

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has offered Montreal a two-year deferral on its Expo 67 indebtedness to "assist the city to carry out any plans it might have for continuing operation of the site." But Trade Minister Winters told the Commons Tuesday that the world fair "as such" will be terminated as soon as possible after the official closing date next Sunday. The announcement made it clear that Ottawa will not stand in the way of the sort of continuing exhibition Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau has proposed as a sequel to Expo 67. ON ITS OWN It also said the city will have to do this on its own, without financial help from Ottawa. Mr. Winters, who reports to the Commons on Expo matters, said the federal and Quebec governments and the City of Montreal had agreed in the planning stages of Expo that La Ronde, the amusement area, would be continued for two years after Expo's closing date with financial support from the three governments.

Average U.S. Family of Four

$9,191 Just Modest Wage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. government estimated Tuesday it takes an income of at least $9,191 a year for an average American family of four to maintain a modest standard of living—a jump of one-third in less than a decade. This was an increase of $3,091 a year over the amount the government estimated was needed in 1959 to maintain the same living standards, and $4,991 more than was needed in 1951. The figures released Tuesday represented living costs last fall. Presumably, they are even higher now.

The estimate was part of the labor department's new City Worker's Family Budget, which is expected to be the forerunner to an administrative move to raise the definition of poverty.

The government's official definition of poverty is an income below $3,200 a year. The median income for all U.S. families is now $7,000 a year.

The report said the most expensive location in the continental United States outside Alaska was the New York-northeastern New Jersey area. The least expensive of the areas surveyed was Austin, Tex.

But Honolulu was more expensive than the New York area, and Arthur Ross, commissioner of labor statistics, said Alaska was even more expensive, although not included in the survey.

The average family was considered to have four members with the father in his late 30s, a 13-year-old son, an 8-year-old girl and a mother who is not employed.

Tory Study Harder On Commonwealth

LONDON (CP)—A harder policy of self-interest on Britain's part in her dealings with the Commonwealth emerges as a major line of Conservative thought in a party study on the subject made public Tuesday night.

"We believe that the Commonwealth is worth preserving, but not at any price," says the document prepared after two years' work by a study group of the party's Commonwealth and overseas council.

The report expresses some concern about potential "dangers" inherent in the Commonwealth Secretariat setup under Canadian diplomat Arnold Smith, although the Earl of Selkirk, chairman of the study body said under questioning the expression might be a clumsy one.

"We have no adverse comment on the present position of the secretariat," he said. But it must be watchful against assuming powers belonging to sovereign states.

Chevy II's

The total newness of the '68 Chevy II is something to see, something to experience. It goes far beyond mere increases in inches. It goes far deeper than the beautiful new body styling—long hood, short deck. It begins in the heart of the car with two more powerful standard engines: a 230-cu.-in. 140-hp

Turbo-Thrift Six and a 307-cu.-in. 200-hp Turbo-Fire V8. Chevy II's total newness is immediately apparent in its computer-refined ride and its unusual roominess for a car in its class. And a tempting array of interior and exterior trim and decor option packages invites you to truly personalize the Chevy II of your choice. But perhaps Chevy II's most enticing feature is the one that hasn't changed—its famous economy. Begins with a low purchase price, continues with exceptionally low running costs.

Every Chevy II has to make it before we mark it.

Before Testifying Defendant Under Hypnosis

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO—A woman was placed into hypnotic trance before a jury, and then testified in post-hypnotic state in an historic legal moment Tuesday.

Gladys Lillian Pitt, 41, charged with attempted murder, placed crown witness Thomas Irving King in the doorway of the bedroom at the moment Mrs. Pitt's husband was being struck on the head with a hammer.

She is charged in Supreme Court with attempting to kill her husband, Edward Harry Pitt, 45, with a hammer, at their Parksville home on April 22.

King earlier testified he was outside the room, and did not see what was happening, at the time of the hammer blow. (See Page 17)

In Front of Jury

Mrs. Pitt was hypnotized in front of the jury by a psychiatrist. Then she was brought out of the hypnosis, and testified in post-hypnotic state.

She said she was able to remember several events she could not remember before. Vancouver psychiatrist Frederick William Hanley, who specializes in hypnosis, began the process of placing Mrs. Pitt in a hypnotic state about 11 a.m.

Mr. Justice J. S. Aikens advised the jury shortly after court opening:

"You recall that (the defendant) had very little recollection of events. (Defence counsel R. C. Weir) asked that the accused be subjected to hypnosis."

"I have decided . . . that I will allow this witness to be placed into a trance in this courtroom."

Mr. Justice Aikens explained to the jury that hypnosis is recognized by medical authorities to be one of two methods by which recollection can be aided.

'Unusual Procedure'

"You are the sole judge of the facts," he said in explaining that the jury could, if it wished, disregard the evidence.

"This is a most unusual procedure," he concluded.

The request had been the subject of a trial within a trial until after 8 p.m. Monday. Mr. Weir first suggested the method shortly before noon.

At 11:27, Dr. Hanley testified that he had, by earlier examinations of Mrs. Pitt, found her to be an excellent subject for hypnosis.

She had demonstrated that she had the ability to recall more events than those she had to date recalled while testifying on her own behalf.

Pitt is presently undergoing treatment in Victoria, where he had been taken for emergency life-saving operations.

Dr. Hanley told the court that there are three Rs to memory — registration, retention, and recall.

Recall Assisted

He said it was recall which may be assisted through hypnosis.

Reasons for the type of amnesia she suffers could be due to "an emotional shock," he said.

The events in question were those immediately concerned with the striking of the blow. He sat beside Mr. Pitt near the jury box and said:

"Remember how it was last time. Just be very comfortable and relax, and just let yourself sink down and relax in that chair."

In a soothing voice, the doctor told the witness her eyelids would become heavy. "They're getting heavier and heavier and heavier, and any time your eyelids want to close they can do so. You want to go into a deep."

Nanaimo Case Makes History

NANAIMO — Mr. Justice J. S. Aikens was unable to find a single legal precedent for his historic decision to allow hypnosis, and testimony in post-hypnotic state, Tuesday.

It took nine hours of trial-within-a-trial argument Monday to establish the basis for the decision.

When press members asked permission to publish some of the argument between defence and crown counsels that went into the decision, permission was refused.

But outside the court, Mr. Justice Aikens telephoned the law library in Vancouver, and a crash search for any similar event in legal history in the Commonwealth or the United States was carried out.

The result:
In one case in Britain a witness testified under the influence of sodium pentathol, the so-called truth serum. In the United States, several courts have heard tape recordings made while the subject was in a trance.

But no precedent could be found anywhere for the Pitt case, where the accused was actually hypnotized in front of the jury, and then testified in post-hypnotic state.

Israel Blamed by UN Observer

From UPI Reports

Artillery shells and mortar rounds hurtled across the southern end of the Suez Canal Tuesday in a fierce 3½-hour battle that wrecked an Egyptian oil and industrial complex at Port Suez. Mid-east dispatches said Israeli gunners destroyed 80 per cent of Egypt's capability for refining and storing petroleum products.

Reports from Cairo early this morning said fires in Port Suez were raging out of control hours after Israeli and Egyptian guns finally fell silent under a United Nations cease-fire.

UN truce observers on the scene said Israeli forces fired the first shots, touching off fighting that quickly escalated into one of the biggest battles since Israel humbled Arab armies in the six-day war last June.

The eruption of heavy fighting had been anticipated along the waterway since last Saturday when Soviet-made missiles, knifing into the night sky from Egyptian positions, nearly cut the Israeli destroyer Elath in two and sent it to the bottom of the Mediterranean Sea in an attack that killed and wounded more than 100 Israeli sailors.

Both sides accused the other of starting the Suez battle Tuesday.

Cairo dispatches Wednesday morning told of heavy civilian casualties in Port Suez, and apparently catastrophic damage to Egypt's two largest oil refineries and tank farms. Firefighters battled desperately to control flames that sent millions of gallons of precious gasoline and diesel oil up in huge columns of smoke.

Li-Gen. Odd Bull of Norway, the chief UN truce observer in the Middle East, reported from the scene that a ceasefire was arranged late Tuesday afternoon.

Bull said Israeli mortars fired the first shots. The fighting soon escalated into a full scale artillery duel with each side using big guns.

Conflicting claims on casualties and damage were issued in both Cairo and Jerusalem, but it was clear

ISRAEL FEELS STING AT UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Soviet Union and the United States presented at an emergency session of the UN Security Council Tuesday night rival resolutions designed to deal with the latest outbreak of violence in the Middle East.

Both Egyptian and Israeli chief UN delegates traded bitter charges during the late-night council session, called at Egypt's formal request following the artillery-and-mortar duel across the southern end of the Suez Canal earlier in the day.

Each accused the other's country of aggression and violation of their Middle East ceasefire obligations.

DAMAGES DEMAND

The Soviet Union formally proposed that the Security Council condemn Israel for what it called an "act of aggression" in shelling Port Suez and that it request Israel to compensate Egypt for damages.

The Soviet draft resolution, introduced by Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko, also would have the council request Israel "to observe strictly" previous UN resolutions imposing a ceasefire in the area.

VIOLATION CHARGED

The Soviet resolution proposed that the council declare the actions of Israeli forces in the Suez area "a gross violation of the Security Council resolutions" which followed last June's Arab-Israeli war.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg followed Fedorenko to the rostrum with a resolution which asked the council to "condemn any and all violations of

Arms Door Open —But Not Wide

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. state department announced Tuesday a partial lifting of the ban on shipments of U.S. arms to the Middle East to permit sending warplanes to Israel, Libya and Morocco and some lesser equipment to Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Tunisia. It said the move "is not in any sense an open-ended decision or an opening of the floodgates."

Included are such famous names as Georges Bidault, (right) 74, former premier, and Jacques Soustelle, 55, former French governor of Algeria, both now living in exile.

Half-Million Involved

Ontario Tax Chief Faces Counterfeit Cheque Charge

TORONTO (CP)—The chief corporation tax collector for Ontario was arrested Tuesday at his office in the legislature building and charged with conspiring to print $500,000 worth of counterfeit Royal Bank travellers cheques.

Howard T. Falla, 39-year-old Toronto man appointed to his job five months ago, was remanded to Oct. 31. Bail was set at $3,000.

WIDE RING

Meanwhile, a 13-month investigation by police has uncovered details of a counterfeiting operation involving $3,200,000 worth of counterfeit cheques.

Investigations began on Labor Day weekend in 1966 when a gang passed $21,000 worth of the forged cheques—all $100 denomination—in Quebec City, Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa.

Banks in Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver were warned by police in Eastern Canada of passers in those cities.

More than $500,000 worth of the Bank of America cheques have been passed in all parts of the world. About $200,000 worth of the Royal Bank of Canada cheques have been seized and destroyed by police in Eastern Canada, and about $300,000 worth are still outstanding. Police said no effort has been made to pass them since Sept. 7, 1966.

Strike Reason

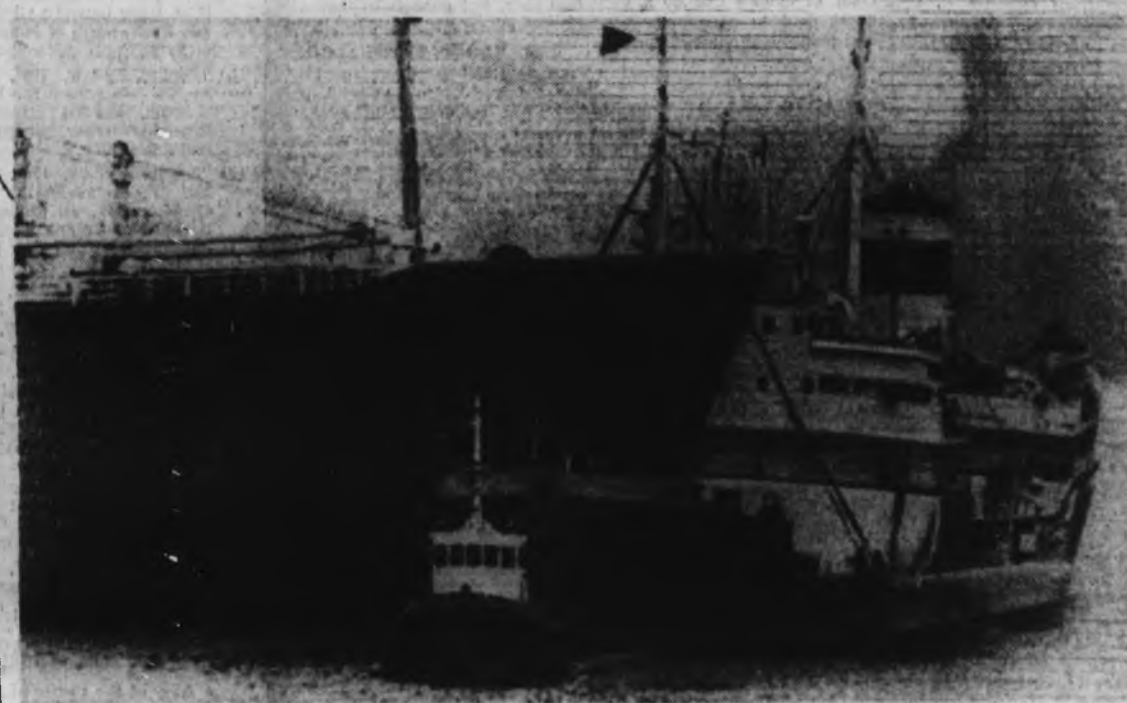

MiGs Held Aces

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. defence department said Tuesday a previously off-limits airbase near Hanoi was bombed because of a recent increase in MiG activity during which U.S. dogfight losses have been three times those of the North Vietnamese. (See also Page 3)

The Phuc Yen airfield, 18 miles northwest of Hanoi, was struck Tuesday for the first time by U.S. fighter-bombers. It long had been a disputed target between the joint chiefs of staff and Defence Secretary Robert McNamara.

After the raids, the Pentagon said the decision to bomb the base was due to a "significant recent increase" in MiG activity against U.S. planes over North Vietnam.

There were no U.S. planes reported lost in the raid.

Tankers Collide

It was no match when these two ships collided at entrance to Stockholm harbor Tuesday. Tugboat in foreground tries to separate big Swedish oil tanker Canada from Russian tanker

Pollution

Big Study
Waiting

PORT Alberni—This city wants to know when there will be some evidence of the major pollution survey announced by the provincial government months ago.

City council will write to Lands Minister Ray Williston requesting information on the dormant survey.

The study was to have included the Alberni Valley.

NOTHING OFFICIAL

There was a grant of $10,000 announced by the government and reported prominently in newspapers.

But Ald. Jim Macfie said the district has had no official word on the spending of the money.

Mayor Les Hammer said Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell and Williston both said the Alberni Valley would be a special pollution study area.

INDUSTRY OMITTED

Council has also learned figures sent to the Pollution Control Board on disposal of effluent by the cities, did not include industrial waste.

City Manager Dennis Thain said the city does not have access to the amount of effluent sent into the waters by industry.

He said the city asked for such figures from MacMillan Bloedel, but received no reply at all.

MILL BLAMED

Hammer said actual city sewage is "a mere drop in the bucket" compared to effluent from the giant pulp mill.

Ald. George McKnight said when he came on council, it was expected a report on effluent from the company would be presented in April.

He said "We have to know... our plans hinge on theirs."

Coho at Cowichan In Time for Prize

The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest is just about over, but the coho have apparently arrived in Cowichan Bay in time for anglers to chalk up a number of entries which could win them a Canadian Pacific Airlines all-expenses-paid trip for two to Mexico.

Brian Ferguson phoned Tuesday afternoon to report the bright silver fresh-run coho had arrived and catches were averaging four or five to a boat.

Colonist deskman Ray Kerr backed him up. Although he didn't boat any Tuesday, he had seven fish on in the morning. Latest King Fisherman entries:

Fastest School Honored

Margaret Jenkins Elementary School is the fastest school in town. It has an award from the City of Victoria Fire Fighters to prove it.

The school's 750 pupils cleared the building in 63 seconds to win the award for the second time. The award last went to the school in 1962. Deputy Chief Carl Costen made the presentation Tuesday after city schools had been judged by the fire department's fire prevention bureau. Honorable mentions went to St. Andrew's school, South Park elementary and Bank Street elementary.

Reserve Navy Plans Tribute

The father of Canada's reserve navy will be honored in a special ceremony Sunday in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church in Esquimalt, with the dedication of a plaque commemorating Rear Admiral Walter Hose, Canada's first chief of naval staff.

Similar ceremonies were held earlier this month at Halifax, and Windsor, Ont. Admiral Hose lived in Windsor for 15 years before his death in June, 1965.

Personnel of Victoria's naval reserve division, HMCS Malahat, will take part in a church parade along Esquimalt Road before the 9:30 a.m. service, and will head a march-past following the dedication. Also taking part will be cadets of the Canadian Officers' School, Venture, and University of Victoria's naval cadets.

Rear Admiral J. A. Charles, commander maritime forces Pacific, will unveil the plaque and take the salute during the march-past.

Dignified Service Regardless of Circumstances

Hippies

Blood Gifts Urged

Victoria hippies will be asked to promote a campaign for blood donations Nov. 20.

The drive organized by the Victoria Youth Council will probably be highlighted by a clean-in at Centennial Square two days before the scheduled blood giving.

Council member James Smith said he hopes to get most of the city's 1,000 hippies at the clean-in, which will be aimed at attracting at least 200 persons to the Red Cross blood clinic.

"At the clean-in Nov. 18 we will put up signs and really advertise that donors are needed to give blood," Mr. Smith said.

He said most of the hippies here are under the minimum donor age of 17 so they will depend on "a lot of adults" to make the drive successful.

Posters will be hung in schools and doctors' offices.

Mr. Smith said the youth council will ask city officials Monday for permission to hold the clean-in.

Art Talk Opens Season

A University of Victoria English department member will open this fall's opening meeting of the Victoria branch of the Humanities Association of Canada at 8:15 p.m., Friday, in the faculty lounge, Education Arts building.

Professor Robin Skelton will read and comment on his poetry.

The second meeting will be on Dec. 1 when Donald Harvey, an assistant professor of fine arts, will speak about European contemporary art. The meeting will also be in the faculty club.

He returned to Victoria in September from a year in Britain and Greece on a Canada Council senior arts fellowship.

Gonzales Volcanic

Nature Book Explores Area's Glacial Origin

Gonzales Hill is composed of volcanic rock. Flinkeyson Arm is a fjord deepened by glacial ice and now below sea level.

A delta, with gravel pits, was formed on the shore near Royal Roads when the land was depressed about 400 feet by the great weight of ice. The flood plain, with its various terraces is used by the Royal Colwood Golf Club.

OLD CHANNEL

The extinct glacial channel of the river that formed this delta had water originating in the Leach River valley. The channel can be seen between Goldstream and Esquimalt Lagoon.

This and other information of interest to the person who explores his physical environment is contained in a booklet prepared by British Columbia Nature Council through the Victoria Natural History Society.

Naturalist's Guide to the Victoria Region was edited by R. Y. Edwards, formerly with the provincial parks branch and now with the federal wildlife service in Ottawa.

ROCKS, PLANTS

The 37-page booklet tells what to look for and where to find it in and about Victoria.

There is a chapter by the editor on the naturalist's Victoria; one on rock formations by A. H. Morrison and one on plants by M. C. Melburn. Dr. Clifford Carl writes about marine life and David Stirling about birds.

The booklet is available for $1 at the Provincial Museum.

NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given that an application will be made by the Anglican Theological College of British Columbia to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of British Columbia, at its next session, for an Act to amend "The Anglican Theological College of British Columbia Act, 1917", as follows:

(1) To clarify and enlarge the powers of the said college with respect to investment of sums belonging to it, and to apply on its own behalf to secure Letters Probate or Letters of Administration with respect to the estate of a member of the college who is named in the will as beneficiary;

(2) To amend the constitution of the Board of Governors so that one Bishop in each diocese is a member of the Board together with the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor, the Principal of the College, one cleric and one lay member representing each diocese and twelve persons elected by the Board from the church at large and five members being the rotating representatives of the Council of Laity and the Board of the Anglican Theological College, and to provide for the appointment of a Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor and the duties of the same and establishing the right of the Board of Governors to appoint patrons of the College;

(3) Providing for the appointment of a Senate and granting to the Senate the power to recommend grants of degrees and diplomas in theology and Certificates of Proficiency which may be accepted and acted upon by the Board of Governors and providing for the granting of degrees and certificates and granting of scholarships and bursaries; and providing a revision of the constitution of the Executive Committee and of the constitution of the Senate;

(4) To clarify certain provisions of the present Act by deleting in Sections 8 and 14 thereof the reference to the word "corporation" and substituting in the case of Section 8 the word "Board" and in Section 14 the words "Board of Governors", and deleting the reference in Section 11 to the word "Warden" and deleting the words "Church of England in Canada" in Section 13 and substituting "Anglican Church of Canada" therefor.

And such other amendments as may be made by such Act.

An appeal was issued Monday night by the residential division chairman of the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal to householders who have been misled by canvassers.

"If these people would mail their donations to the Community Chest at 1551 Cook Street, it would help us a lot," said Mrs. Shirley Baker.

Mrs. Baker said that 2,000 canvassers were doing "an excellent job" but, despite many callbacks, it was almost impossible to find everybody at home.

Winters Never So Good Youth Facilities Inadequate, Survey Told

Life need not be all woolly underwear and blubber knives. This is what 16 young Eskimos are finding out in Victoria this winter as they experience southern Vancouver Island's coolest season in complete amazement.

The group from North-West Territories is now at Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt undergoing a 10-month course in boat-building and marine mechanics.

The students are attached to the Fleet School and the courses are being sponsored by the northern affairs department while instruction and facilities are being provided by the Royal Canadian Navy.

Nearly 65 per cent of Victorians believe that youth facilities here are inadequate, according to a preliminary survey presented Monday to Mayor Hugh Stephen.

The survey was based on answers to 300 sidewalk questionnaires taken by the Victoria Youth Council this month. A total of 1,000 opinions is being sought by the YVC.

Mayor Stephen was "quite non-committal" to a renewed request for a major youth centre in Victoria, said YVC spokesman Charles Barber.

Last week Mayor Stephen rebuffed the request of the youth group for a referendum on a youth centre in the December municipal ballot.

Also rejected was the suggestion that there should be youth representation on the city council and the Greater Victoria School Board.

Mr. Barber said the five-part questionnaire is being gathered from a public cross-section of downtown streets. All those quizzed are 21 or over, he added.

It asks these questions:

● Who is the mayor of Victoria? Among the 300 questioned so far, 68.2 per cent named Mayor Stephen.

● Did you vote in the last municipal election? Yes, said 41.2 per cent.

● Did the mayoralty candidate you voted for win? Only 28.8 per cent said yes; the rest said no, or indicated they had not voted.

● Are there sufficient facilities for young people in Greater Victoria? To this, 23.6 per cent said yes and 64.8 per cent no.

● What is the greatest single problem facing Victoria? Juvenile delinquency was the answer of 16.8 per cent.

Next named was "not enough youth facilities" by 14.8 per cent, followed by "unemployment" with 7.2 per cent. Next, in order, were "too many senior citizens" and "lack of housing."

A public meeting to discuss the YVC's aims will be held Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the UVIC Student Union Building.

The amount collected by 5 p.m. Monday from all divisions was $286,977 which is 47.8 per cent of the $600,000 goal.

The first division to go over the top is the federal service division, made up of all federal employees and the armed forces. Under R. V. Henning and Larry Slight, co-chairmen, Monday announced that they had collected $43,360. Their goal was $39,300.

Before Testifying

Defendant Under Hypnosis

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO—A woman was placed into hypnotic trance before a jury, and then testified in post-hypnotic state in an historic legal moment Tuesday.

Gladys Lillian Pitt, 41, charged with attempted murder, placed crown witness Thomas Irving King in the doorway of the bedroom at the moment Mrs. Pitt's husband was being struck on the head with a hammer.

She is charged in Supreme Court with attempting to kill her husband, Edward Harry Pitt, 45, with a hammer, at their Parksville home on April 22.

King earlier testified he was outside the room, and did not see what was happening, at the time of the hammer blow. (See Page 30)

In Front of Jury

Mrs. Pitt was hypnotized in front of the jury by a psychiatrist. Then she was brought out of the hypnosis, and testified in post-hypnotic state.

She said she was able to remember several events she could not remember before.

Vancouver psychiatrist Frederick William Hanley, who specializes in hypnosis, began the process of placing Mrs. Pitt in a hypnotic state about 11 a.m.

Mr. Justice J. S. Aikens advised the jury shortly after court opening:

"You recall that (the defendant) had very little recollection of events. (Defense counsel R. C. Weir) asked that the accused be subjected to hypnosis."

"I have decided . . . that I will allow this witness to be placed into a trance in this courtroom."

Mr. Justice Aikens explained to the jury that hypnosis is recognized by medical authorities to be one of two methods by which recollection can be aided.

'Unusual Procedure'

"You are the sole judge of the facts," he said in explaining that the jury could, if it wished, disregard the evidence.

"This is a most unusual procedure," he concluded.

The request had been the subject of a trial within a trial until after 8 p.m. Monday. Mr. Weir first suggested the method shortly before noon.

At 11:27, Dr. Hanley testified that he had, by earlier examinations of Mrs. Pitt, found her to be an excellent subject for hypnosis.

She had demonstrated that she had the ability to recall more events than those she had to date recalled while testifying on her own behalf.

Pitt is presently undergoing treatment in Victoria, where he had been taken for emergency life-saving operations.

Dr. Hanley told the court that there are three Rs to memory — registration, retention, and recall.

Recall Assisted

He said it was recall which may be assisted through hypnosis.

Reasons for the type of amnesia she suffers could be due to "an emotional shock," he said.

The events in question were those immediately concerned with the striking of the blow. He sat beside Mrs. Pitt near the jury box and said:

"Remember how it was last time. Just be very comfortable and relax, and just let yourself sink down and relax in that chair."

In a soothing voice, the doctor told the witness her eyelids would become heavy.

"They're getting heavier and heavier and heavier, and any time your eyelids want to close they can do so. You want to go into a deep,

Nanaimo Case Makes History

NANAIMO — Mr. Justice J. S. Aikens was unable to find a single legal precedent for his historic decision to allow hypnosis, and testimony in post-hypnotic state, Tuesday.

It took nine hours of trial-within-a-trial argument Monday to establish the basis for the decision.

When press members asked permission to publish some of the argument between defence and crown counsels that went into the decision, permission was refused.

But outside the court, Mr. Justice Aikens telephoned the law library in Vancouver, and a crash search for any similar event in legal history in the Commonwealth or the United States was carried out.

The result:
In one case in Britain a witness testified under the influence of sodium pentathol, the so-called truth serum. In the United States, several courts have heard tape recordings made while the subject was in a trance.

But no precedent could be found anywhere for the Pitt case, where the accused was actually hypnotized in front of the jury, and then testified in post-hypnotic state.

Jewish Guns on Target

NASSER'S OIL GONE

From UPI Reports

Artillery shells and mortar rounds hurtled across the southern end of the Suez Canal Tuesday in a fierce 3½-hour battle that wrecked an Egyptian oil and industrial complex at Port Suez. Midday dispatches said Israeli gunners destroyed 80 per cent of Egypt's capability for refining and storing petroleum products.

Reports from Cairo early this morning said fires in Port Suez were raging out of control hours after Israeli and Egyptian guns finally fell silent under a United Nations cease-fire.

UN truce observers on the scene said Israeli forces fired the first shots, touching off fighting that quickly escalated into one of the biggest battles since Israel humbled Arab armies in the six-day war last June.

The eruption of heavy fighting had been anticipated along the waterway since last Saturday when Soviet-made missiles knifed into the night sky from Egyptian positions, nearly cut the Israeli destroyer Elath in two and sent it to the bottom of the

Both sides accused the other of starting the Suez battle Tuesday.

Cairo dispatches this morning told of heavy civilian casualties in Port Suez, and a reportedly catastrophic damage to Egypt's two largest oil refineries and tank farms. Firefighters battled desperately to control flames that sent millions of gallons of precious gasoline and diesel oil up in huge columns of smoke.

Lt. Gen. Odd Bull of Norway, the chief UN truce observer in the Middle East, reported from the scene that a ceasefire was arranged late Tuesday afternoon.

Bull said Israeli mortars fired the first shots. The fighting soon escalated into a full scale artillery duel with each side using big guns.

Conflicting claims on casualties and damage were issued in both Cairo and Jerusalem but it was clear

Israel Feels Sting at UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Soviet Union and the United States presented at an emergency session of the UN Security Council Tuesday night rival resolutions designed to deal with the latest outbreak of violence in the Middle East.

Both Egyptian and Israeli chief UN delegates traded bitter charges during the late-night council session, called at Egypt's formal request following the artillery-and-mortar duel across the southern end of the Suez Canal earlier in the day.

Each accused the other's country of aggression and violation of their Middle East ceasefire obligations.

The Soviet Union formally proposed that the Security Council condemn Israel for what it called an "act of aggression" in shelling Port Suez and that it request Israel to compensate Egypt for damages.

The Soviet draft resolution, introduced by Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko, also would have the council request Israel "to observe strictly" previous UN resolutions imposing a ceasefire in the area.

The Soviet resolution proposed that the council declare the actions of Israeli forces in the Suez area "a gross violation of the Security Council resolutions" which followed last June's Arab-Israeli war.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg followed Fedorenko to the rostrum with a resolution which asked the council to "condemn any and all violations of

Arms Door Open

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. state department announced Tuesday a partial lifting of the ban on shipments of U.S. arms to the Middle East to permit sending warplanes to Israel, Libya and Morocco and some lesser equipment to Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Tunisia. It said the move "is not in any sense an open-ended decision or an opening of the floodgates."

Ontario Tax Chief Facing Counterfeit Cheque Charge

TORONTO (CP)—The chief corporation tax collector for Ontario was arrested Tuesday at his office in the legislature building and charged with conspiring to print $500,000 worth of counterfeit Royal Bank travellers cheques.

Howard T. Falla, 39-year-old Toronto man appointed to his job five months ago, was remanded to Oct. 31. Bail was set at $3,000.

WIDE RING
Meanwhile, a 13-month investigation by police has uncovered details of a counterfeiting operation involving $3,200,000 worth of counterfeit cheques.

Investigations began on Labor Day weekend in 1966 when a gang passed $21,000 worth of the forged cheques—all $100 denomination—in Quebec City, Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa.

Banks in Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver were warned by police in Eastern Canada of passers in those cities.

More than $300,000 worth of the Bank of America cheques have been passed in all parts of the world. About $200,000 worth of the Royal Bank of Canada cheques have been seized and destroyed by police in Eastern Canada, and about $300,000 worth are still outstanding. Police said no effort has been made to pass them since Sept. 7, 1966.
